TRUCK DRIVER KILLED ON ROUTE 100

Victim Is Thrown Against Tree

FATAL ACCIDENT OCCURS ON BYPASS

A freak accident claimed the life of a truck driver on the Route 100 bypass in Upper Pottsgrove township early Sunday morning.

Richard W. Clough, 48, of Wilmington, Del., suffered fatal injuries when his truck sideswiped a tree.

State police at the Jeffersonville barracks said Clough was thrown out of the truck. He apparently was tossed head first against a tree.

The truck continued down the highway for another 1000 feet and came to rest in a field.

Clough was dead on arrival at Pottstown hospital shortly after 1 a. m. He was taken to the hospital in a Goodwill ambulance.

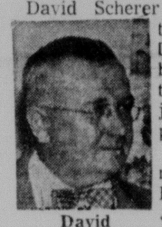
Trooper John McCormick investigated.

POTTSGROVE BOARD WILL ADOPT BUDGET

Meeting Set Tonight; Group Also to Elect Treasurer

The Pottsgrove Joint school board will adopt a budget of approximately $811,500 for the coming fiscal year, and will elect a treasurer tonight.

David Scherer Jr., Sanatoga, treasurer of the Lower Pottsgrove board, has been treasurer of the joint board the past year.



David Scherer Jr.

Robert C. Petrilla, Upper Pottsgrove, and John F. Psota, West Pottsgrove, are the possibilities along with Scherer for the position.

The 1960-1961 budget was adopted tentatively in May by the board, and the final approval is practically assured, Supervising Principal Robert L. Fisher said.

THE NEW budget exceeds the present year's figure of $733,000, and is an all-time high in costs for the young joint district.

Recommendations will be made by the personnel committee on several teaching positions for the Fall term, and Fisher said there will be several resignations requiring action.

St. Pius School Graduates 98

Three pupils earned honors Sunday during graduation at St. Pius X High school.

Theodora Vapniarek was valedictorian and got 11 awards; John Browne was salutatorian and received nine honors and Mary Ann Prentice garnered seven prizes.

The Rev. Francis J. Kimble, principal at St. Pius, remarked, 'It is somewhat unusual that so many honors went to just three pupils."

The graduation Sunday was the first in which Father Kimble guided pupils all through high school. He came to St. Pius four years ago.

"I particularly enjoyed seeing our young people grow in-

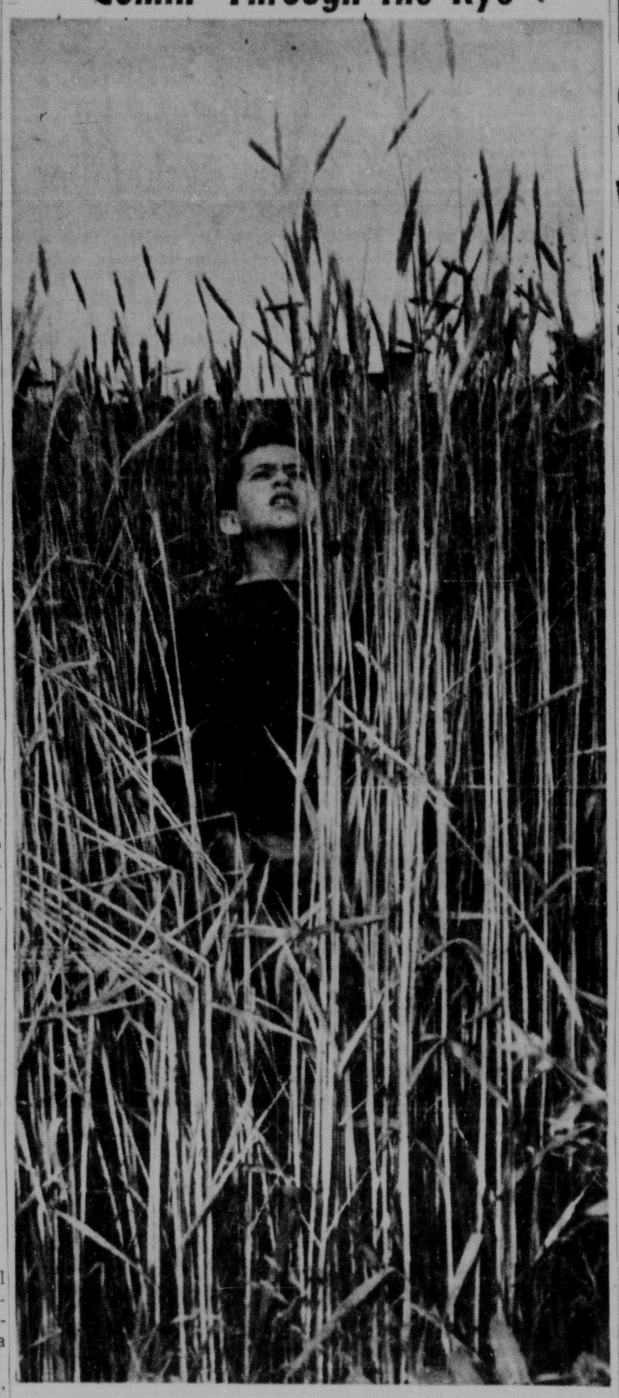
Comin' Through the Rye



—Mercury Staff Photo

Mark A. Brancaccio, 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Brancaccio, 1665 Swamp pike, Gilbertsville, can hardly believe his eyes as he takes an ill-chosen shortcut through a 5-acre rye field on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Beidler near Gilbertsville. The youngster stands 4½ feet in his stocking feet. The rye reaches an average of 6 feet throughout the field. Farmers say they can't remember a year when their grain crops have grown so high so fast.

Warm Days, Abundance of Rain Send Crops Zooming to New Heights

Farmers in the Pottstown area agree this has been a great year for crops like wheat and rye. In many places crops that are usually about four feet tall at this time of the year are brushing the six foot mark.

Warm days and cool nights, combined with an abundance of rain, is said to be the cause.

Gordon Christman, Gilbertsville RD 1, said the weather has been "wonderful for crops like wheat and hay, but not so good for corn. The nights have been too chilly."

"One thing is for sure," Christman said, "with all the grass crops growing so tall there's going to be plenty of straw."

Christman farms the land owned by Mr. and Mrs. William M. Beidler, 1675 Swamp Pike, as well as several other farms in the Gilbertsville area.

Rain Expected To Continue

As nice as Saturday was, that's how miserable Sunday was.

Saturday's weather was truly "glorious," just as the weatherman predicted for the entire weekend. There were temperatures in the high 70s, and nary a cloud in the sky.

Sunday was the other way around. Rain in the morning, and heavy rainstorms in the late afternoon. And when it wasn't raining, it was threatening to do so.

In all, about a quarter-inch of rain fell Sunday, and more is on its way today.

* * *

THE OFFICIAL weather forecast calls for considerable cloudiness throughout today, tonight and tomorrow, with scattered thundershowers late this afternoon or tonight.

Iezzi Named Officer Of State Postal Clerks

Anthony M. Iezzi, 273 Pearl street, Hanover Heights, was one of nine vice presidents of the Pennsylvania Postal Clerks association elected Sunday in Altoona.

Iezzi is an employe of the Pottstown postoffice. Sidney Lindenberg, Lancaster, was elected president.

North Coventry Sewage Project Will Be Decided

North Coventry's board of supervisors will be asked tonight by the township sewer authority to adopt the $1 million sewer project planned for the community.

The supervisors will also select a part time policeman to assist Chief Charles Wilt, and will decide which township roads to oil and chip this year.

The authority's plan for the sewage system is set down in a petition asking the supervisors to accept the plans.

The supervisors indicated Sunday they all probably will vote in favor of an ordinance accepting the plans as presented.

President J. Russell Keim said, "From what we've seen so far, it seems to be a good program."

SECRETARY GEORGE Neiffer said, "It looks favorable to me."

Raymond Kohler said, "I can see no reason at this point to vote against it."

The sewer project consists of a sanitary sewage collection system, interceptor sewers and pump stations, and a sewage treatment plant for the Hanover Heights, Pottstown Landing, South Pottstown and Kenilworth areas.

The authority has received bids on the work and will award a contract later. The engineers, Gilbert associates, incorporated, of Reading, said the project could be finished in 10 months.

James Julian, incorporated, of Wilmington, is low bidder on the construction of the collection

DENTAL CLINIC SEEN POSSIBLE BY OFFICIAL

Supervisor Says Private Funds Could Be Used

The Upper Perkiomen may lack money for a dental clinic, but a State official said the clinic still can be had.

The funds would come from private sources, noted Dr. Frank Blauhut, State dental supervisor in four counties.

Dr. Blauhut declared, "I know the Upper Perkiomen school jointure has no allotted funds for a clinic.

"That is a setback to establishing a needed facility. But other communities have overcome the problem," said Dr. Blauhut.

HE POINTED to Oxford, where a fixed school budget was bolstered by contributions from civic groups and from other organizations.

The lump sum for dental equipment in the Upper Perkiomen would be $1000 to $1500. Yearly fees to a clinical dentist would be paid by the State.

"I can not clobber anyone into accepting a clinic. But there is a decided need for the service in the Upper Perkiomen jointure," remarked Dr. Blauhut.

He and school nurses unearthed facts which indicate that half of the elementary pupils in seven communities get no or just haphazard dental care.

"To set up a clinic, I already have co-operation from overcrowded dentists, the parents of pupils, school nurses and school administrators.

"All that is needed to insure good health is community support and sanction from the school board," said Dr. Blauhut.

Cafeteria Help Asked to Appear

Eighteen registered letters were delivered Saturday, summoning cafeteria workers to the Upper Perkiomen school board.

The board will conduct private hearings Wednesday night. Letters, signed by Stanley Kurtz, supervising principal, said the meeting will help "straighten out cafeteria problems."

Mrs. Mary Christman, cafeteria worker from Pennsburg, declared, "Investigators have been around and asking questions of some people for several weeks.

"Isn't it true, that where there is a lot of smoke there usually is fire?" remarked Mrs. Christman.

Harry Travis, 33 Chestnut street, recently was elected vice president of the newly merged AFL-CIO in Pennsylvania.

Travis works at Dana corporation, where he is recording secretary for a unit of Amalgamated Local 644, United Auto Workers.

He was among 1200 CIO and 1100 AFL delegates at the historic merger of the largest blocks of unionism in Pennsylvania.

Travis will serve two years as vice president and will attend quarterly meetings in Harrisburg and yearly conventions in Philadelphia and in Pittsburgh.

HIS PAST union work in this area included being vice president and then trustee of Local 644, and from 1950-1955 president of the CIO in Montgomery county.

He still is a delegate to that county organization.

Travis and his wife, Anna, have one child, Barbara, who recently was graduated from Pottstown High school.

Returning from the convention with Travis on Saturday were Curtis Miller and Reynolds Whistler, unionists at Dana corporation.

The three gave reports of their week-long merger to 100 men in the AFL-CIO hall, 1304 High street. Miller was in charge of the general meeting.

Council Approval Of Parking Lot Plan Expected

Pottstown borough council is expected to endorse a merchants' parking proposal tonight, sending the measure along to the borough authority.

The authority will be asked to begin negotiations for the purchase of the Lessig property and a portion of the Reading railroad freight yards to provide 311 new off-street spaces.

The merchants will be solicited beginning Wednesday to contribute to a $50,000 trust fund to cover any losses the borough may incur in operating the lots.

Stuart B. Webb, vice president of the Montgomery county Bank and Trust company, has been appointed chairman of the drive to collect the fund.

Vice chairmen are Leon Levitz, co-owner of Levitz Furniture company, and Edward N. Hoffman of the New York store.

THE DRIVE will begin Wednesday morning, after a special committee of about 15 businessmen is named to aid in collecting the "Chamber of Commerce Parking fund."

The drive officials expect to reach the $50,000 mark in two to three weeks. The goal is to get cash—or pledges of paying in the near future—so that the money can be turned over to the borough authority and it can complete the deal for the two properties.

The resolution to approve the lot program, and to hand the ball to the authority, was endorsed unanimously by the finance com-

All the joy and surprise in winning $100 in The Mercury's Lucky Bucks contest is mirrored in the faces of Mrs. Brower Knaster, 1077 South street, and her son, Charles, 6. Mrs. Knaster picked up the Lucky Buck at Town Toy company, 363 High street, when she was buying a basketball net for Charles. They had almost walked out without making a purchase when the store was out of wooden beads they were after for a Summer handicrafts class sponsored by their church.

$100 Lucky Buck Found by Shopper

A family of regular church goers shopping for materials for a Summer handicrafts class sponsored by St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church, High and Price streets, picked up a Lucky Buck Friday night valued at $100.

"We were just lucky. Anyone could have won," Brower Knaster, 1077 South street, reported after winning top prize in The Mercury's easy-to play Lucky Bucks contest.

He was right. You, too, can be a winner. The rules are simple. Just check your $1 bills against the list on page 5 of today's Mercury. If the serial numbers match, you have a winner—worth $3 to $50.

And to make the contest even more exciting 17 new Lucky Bucks have been placed in circulation. The new Lucky Bucks bring to 287 the total number of $1 bills with the lucky serial numbers that are in circulation.

Mrs. Knaster actually received the valuable $1 bill in change, so she'll get the awnings she has wanted for the front of the house. The chil-

Community Built Sewers While It Built Itself

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of articles on multitown sewage systems. It tells how one of many areas has averted the sewage disposal problem by farsighted planning.)

In a unique situation, a unique community prepared for its future sewage disposal needs by building the system the same time as the town.

What else but Levittown, Pa., would answer this description? William Levitt built the entire sewage and water system at the same time as he built the nation's biggest pre-planned community.

Levitt in turn leased the system to the Lower Bucks county Joint Municipal authority, and the authority has been able to help older areas on the fringe of Levittown by taking them into the system.

Paul X. Blattler is the managing engineer of the Lower Bucks authority, and has been on the scene since it was formed. Blattler is so determined to sell long range planning for sewer success that he speaks it like the gospel.

26 Members Attend Reunion Of High School Class of 1910

They came from as far away as Florida, Massachusetts and Michigan for the 50th anniversary reunion of the 1910 graduating class of Pottstown High school at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. Seeders, 220 East Schuylkill road, Kenilworth.

They graduated on June 21, '50 young people eager to face the future. The class trip they had taken to Washington—the first in the school's history—was fresh in their minds, and two world wars and a great depression were unforeseen.

Of those 50 members, 33 are still living. And of the 39, only 26 were able to attend the reunion. But already the 26 have begun planning their next reunion—this time two years hence.

The late Pauline Erb gave the valedictory address and Ellen Hallman, now Mrs. Ellen Shelley of 517 High street, gave the salutatory message. The commencement exercises were in the Richards building on Beech street, which was later destroyed in a fire. Of the teachers, only Herman William Weidner, now 92, is still alive.

CLASS PRESIDENT Harrison W. Fry, religious and education editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin for 42 years, was unable to attend the reunion because of a recent illness, but the other class officers answered the roll call.

They are Laura Shaner, now Mrs. Laura S. Stacy, 243 Chestnut street, vice president; Marguerite Malsberger, now Mrs. Marguerite Johnson, 1022 North Warren street, secretary; and Earl J. Reidenouer, King and Charlotte street.

Mrs. Shelley, following her commencement address and graduation from Ursinus college, served as assistant principal of Birdsboro High school, then settled down to

25,000 Police Being Mobilized To Guard President In Tokyo

TOKYO, (AP)—Sharply increased protective measures—including a security force of 25,000 police—were reported in the works Sunday to guard President Eisenhower from the threat of massive leftist demonstrations during his Japanese visit.

The newspaper Japan Times said an original plan calling for the mobilization of 15,000 security police was scrapped because of the mobbing of White House press secretary James C. Hagerty in Tokyo last Friday. It said the new plans call for deploying 25,000 police to protect Eisenhower.

Government officials and police declined to comment on the report but there has been strong criticism of police failure to curb the violent demonstrations that have surged through Tokyo and other parts of Japan.

Tokyo's motorcycle police spent several hours Sunday rehearsing escort duties for the Eisenhower arrival June 19.

The English language Japan Times said 12,000 police will be lined along the 15-mile route from Tokyo's Haneda Airport to the Imperial Palace, with an additional 10,000 stationed at major traffic junctions.

The motor parade from the airport poses the most critical phase of the reception, since the route gives Japan's violent left-wing elements their best possible chance to embarrass the President as they did Hagerty.

The motorcade, according to the paper, will be composed of at least 13 trucks carrying 600 police, 41 motorcycles, several patrol cars, and about 10 passenger cars. Another 300 patrol cars will be stationed in and around the airport.

There also were reports that influential leaders in Japan's academic, press, cultural and entertainment fields will meet this week to launch a nationwide drive to give Eisenhower a resounding welcome.

The newspaper Yomiuri said the campaign is designed to offset any leftist demonstrations protesting the visit.

Motorcycle police went through repeated dry runs Sunday for the Eisenhower arrival.

In businesslike fashion, 50 cops on shiny white motorcycle repeatedly made the 15-mile run between Haneda Airport and Emperor Hirohito' downtown palace in a protective wedge around an old black imperial limousine. Security officials headed the wedge in another car.

This critical trip, which Eisenhower is scheduled to make with the Emperor a week hence, was clocked at 38 minutes.

Foreign Ministry and imperial household officials took part in the rehearsal, staged as Eisenhower was flying to Anchorage, Alaska, on the first leg of his 23,000-mile Far Eastern tour that will take him to the Philippines, Formosa, Japan and South Korea.

Red flags and other debris of a noisy Saturday demonstration by more than 150,000 leftists against Eisenhower and Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi had been cleared from Tokyo streets.

Tokyo newspapers were urging the Japanese people to welcome Eisenhower warmly and courteously as a chief of state, regardless of their feelings toward Kishi's government.

But a rough week apparently lay ahead. Socialists, Communists and other leftist elements scheduled a series of demonstrations in an effort to wreck the defense alliance between Japan and the United States.

There were a couple of Sunday incidents.

About 150 college professors packed themselves aboard 13 cars and paraded through Tokyo streets shouting, "Down with the Kishi Cabinet" and calling for dissolution of Parliament.

The Cabinet also was the target of a rally of about 20,000 persons at Akita, in northern Japan.

The radical students federation, Zengakuren, which mobbed White House press secretary James G. Hagerty Friday, said it will mobilize 50,000 members to lay siege to Parliament from Monday night on.

Airline Flights Canceled Due To Pilot Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—Eastern Air Lines reported about one-third of its flight operations at the three metropolitan area airports had been canceled between midnight and noon Sunday because of the pilots' strike.

An airline spokesman said that, during the period, it had operated 53 flights out of Idlewild, LaGuardia and Newark, N.J., airports, and canceled 29 flights. The airline said a similar number of flight arrivals had been canceled during the same period.

Most of the passengers booked on canceled flights are being accommodated by other airlines, the spokesman added.

At present, the airline said, there were no flight operations between New York and Miami and only a few flights to and from Boston. The spokesman said most of the pilots are failing to show up in Miami and Boston.

The strike began midnight Friday because of pilots' objection to a new Federal Aviation Agency regulation which directs that FAA flight inspectors sit directly behind the captain on jet flights. The pilots claim this practice unsafe because the inspector displaces one of the copilots.

The company called the action of the pilots an unlawful strike and the pilots say it is a temporary work stoppage.

Eastern said it is operating most of the regularly scheduled flights between New York and Bermuda, Montreal, San Juan, Houston, and Atlanta.

Many of the flight departure cancellations, the airline said, were due to lack of arriving aircraft from other cities.

Man Is Killed As Fire Sweeps Through Hotel

GARY, Ind. (AP) — One man was burned to death and at least one more feared dead in a fire which destroyed a hotel in the middle of the Gary business district Sunday.

Firemen searching smoking rubble of the Commercial Hotel found the scorched body of James Ennis, 70, stretched half in and half out of a doorway on the second floor.

Ennis, a retired steelworker, who was partially deaf died on the opposite side of the building from his room, and firemen believed he collapsed while trying to find an exit through heavy smoke.

Listed as missing was a resident named Francisco Ortega, believed to be in his 20s. His two brothers, Torres and Diaz, said they had not seen him since they and more than 60 other residents fled into the street in their night clothes.

Two hotel occupants were admitted to Mercy Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation.

Witnesses said a "big, roaring ball of flame" ballooned up in the hotel's ground floor laundry room and climbed rapidly through the three-story building. Nearly 100 firemen fought for more than an hour before bringing the flames under control.

Residents of the brick, 74-room structure awoke in thick, choking smoke. Most of them had no time to gather up belongings or even dress.

About an hour after firemen arrived, the south wall collapsed. Another wall followed a few moments later.

Fire Chief John Massa, who ordered the hotel's two remaining walls knocked down with a crane so his men could search the ruins, estimated the loss at $150,000.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately known. But the night clerk, Walter J. Dodds said he checked the building at 4 a.m. and found nothing wrong.

Errant Balloon Refuses to Move

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The Navy's wayward balloon has now turned stubborn.

It doesn't seem to want to go up or down, or move in any direction. It is just hanging over the ocean, at an elevation between 50,000 and 60,000 feet, about 600 miles a little north of west from here Sunday.

That's about where it was Saturday at this time.

The big, helium-inflated, plastic bag—40 stories high and weighing more than two tons—was launched at Brunswick, Ga., a week ago to gather scientific information about cosmic rays. The information is in instruments in its gondola.

A Navy tracking plane, which arrived here Thursday when the balloon started over the Pacific, is standing by in the hope that it will float back if it doesn't come down on the ocean. It was supposed to have descended somewhere in Texas.

The Weather Bureau said that prevailing westerly winds below 50,000 feet would start it back to the coast if it would come down below 50,000 feet.

President Fails to See Fourteen Foot Bear

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The bear was so big the President didn't see it.

President Eisenhower stopped in at Jonas Bros. Wildlife Museum Sunday shortly after arriving here to see exhibits of bear, musk ox and other Alaska big game.

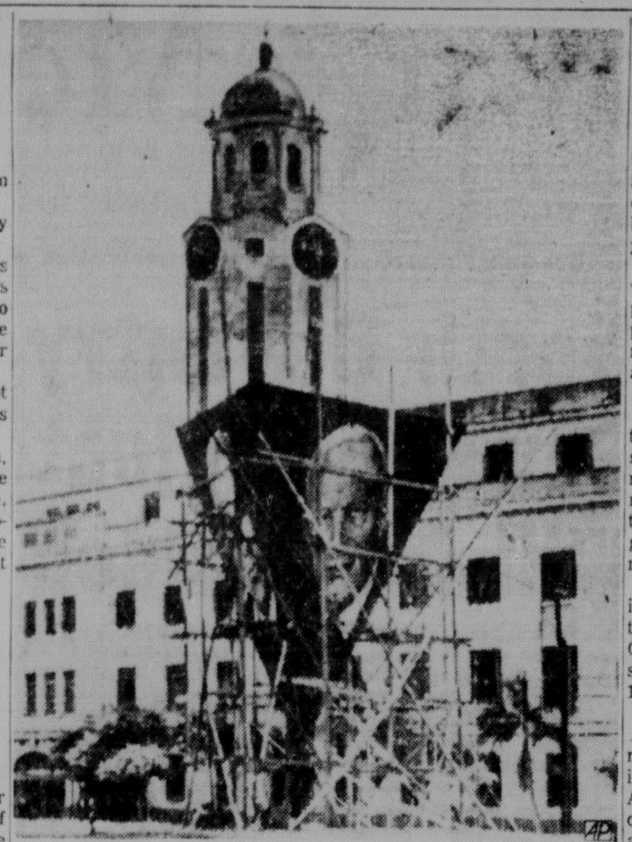
"Do you have a Kodiak bear?" the President asked. At the time he was standing beside a mounted bear standing about 14 feet high.

When this was pointed out, Eisenhower commented: "Oh, it was so big I didn't see it."

The President said when he was a boy he did some trapping himself.

"I got 11 cents for muskrat and $1.50 for mink. But I only got about two mink a year."

Human interest wins money if you telephone good story material to The Mercury.



GETTING READY FOR IKE—A huge two-way portrait of President Eisenhower was placed in front of Manila's City hall in preparation for his arrival tomorrow. Alaska Crowds Welcome Ike at Air Force Base

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — President Eisenhower arrived in sun-soaked Alaska Sunday and called the 49th state "no longer an arctic frontier" but a bridge to Asia whose people have demonstrated "what free men and women can accomplish."

The President's big jet transport plane landed at Elmendorf Air Force Base at 10:10 a.m. after a nonstop flight from Washington.

In a 10-minute address of greeting, Eisenhower made no direct reference to the 15-day Far East goodwill mission, on which he departs from here early Monday. Nor did he refer to the Tokyo demonstrations against his visit to Japan.

But Democratic Gov. William A. Egan of Alaska told the President the prayers of the nation accompanied him on the 23,000-mile trip on which he will arrive at Tokyo June 19.

Earlier in the day, however, before leaving Washington, the President said the purpose of his mission was "to improve the climate of international understanding."

"Never, I believe, in the history of international affairs, has there been so massive a program of communications between government officials and between peoples. We should not let unpleasant incidents and sporadic turmoil, inspired by misled or hostile agents, to dim for us the concrete and gratifying results. They have been to the great profit and to the great good of the entire world."

An estimated 4,000 Alaskans greeted Eisenhower and his party at the Air Force base, six miles from downtown Anchorage.

The temperature was 56 degrees and the President doffed his felt hat to the bright sun as he alighted from the plane to shake hands with Gov. Egan and Lt. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong, commander in chief of Alaska armed forces. Some clouds rimmed the snow-capped Chugach Mountain behind Anchorage, Alaska's largest city.

"My father," the President told the crowd, "was a growing boy when the Russian flag flew over Alaska. It never entered my head that as President of the United States I would someday urgently recommend statehood for Alaska and welcome it into the union."

Eisenhower called his sweeping flight from Washington, over some of Alaska's rugged expanses, "an index to North American growth in my lifetime."

Among the greeters who welcomed the President were two little Eskimo girls, Helen and Stella Mosquito of Anchorage, who were in the reception line to present a bouquet of roses to Mrs. John Eisenhower, the President's daughter-in-law.

The President bent low over the dark-eyed youngsters and chatted with them for a few moments. After the formal exchange of greetings between the President and the governor, Eisenhower returned to chat with the girls a second time.

Eisenhower, in his opening remarks, noted that this was his first visit to Alaska since it became the 49th state. He previously had been here, however, as an Army general.

Referring to his boyhood, Eisenhower commented: "Alaska, to all of us, at least in Kansas, represented the glamor of gold and the Yukon and the Klondike."

Senate Committee Recommends Boost in Spy Satellite Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators said Sunday they hope the $83,800,000 extra they recommended will get U.S. spy satellites orbiting over the Soviet Union a year earlier than now planned.

That should be in late 1962, a revised report by the Senate Appropriations Committee said in explaining a $40,384,897,000 defense money bill ready for Senate floor action this week.

Air Force spokesmen testified that unmanned military satellites, such as Samos, will be able to make detailed photographs of territory anywhere in the world and then transmit these back to ground stations on radio command.

The first experimental launching of a Samos is scheduled late this year from Point Arguello, Calif. The plan is to have the system in operation by 1963 or 1964.

Extra funds to speed the Samos satellite project were added in a last minute move by the full Appropriations Committee. A subcommittee had denied specific amounts by authorized transfer of up to 150 million dollars if there is a scientific breakthrough.

Senate experts said two other emergency funds—one for 150 million dollars cash and another for an equal transfer authority—also are available for pushing the military satellites.

Before these extra funds and authority were added, the big money bill carried some 333 million dollars for three military satelite research projects. The other two are the Discoverer—which has been put into orbit on test launchings—and the Midas, planned to report back instantly any ballistic missile launchings detected by its infrared sensors.

The senate committee asked "earliest possible development of an operational reconnaissance satelite" adding: "The early attainment of an operational capability with this system will provide the United States with the intelligence capability which is vitally needed to prevent surprise attack, continually assess the threat to our national security, and provide our strategic force with vital information."

Communist China Denounces Tour

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China Monday again denounded President Eisenhower's Asian tour, saying it is "closely connected with the U.S. government's endeavor to prop up its stooges in the Far East."

The attack on Eisenhower was made by the official New China News Agency after the President left Washington for a trip that will take him to the Philippines, Formosa, Japan and South Korea.

The Chinese Communist agency said Eisenhower had used a departure statement of peace and friendship to cover the real purpose of his tour.

"Eisenhower's present trip is an immediate move of the U. S. government in creating tension and planning aggression in the world in general and in the Far East in particular after it torpedoed the four-power heads of government conference," the agency said.

WATER-COOLED ENGINE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., (AP)—When another motorist drove alongside Wallace Horn Jr., and told him his car engine, located in the rear, was afire, Horn did the best thing he could think of under the circumstances.

He backed the small foreign car down an embankment into a stream of water.

Nixon Support Is Pledged by Gov. Rockefeller

NEW YORK (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said Sunday night he would support Vice President Richard M. Nixon if he wins the Republican presidential nomination, but it will be difficult to carry New York State unless Nixon speaks out on vital issues.

The Republican governor repeated earlier statements that he would support whatever candidates are nominated at the GOP National Convention. Asked about Nixon, he answered: "I will support him."

Rockefeller said his decision of last December that he would not be a candidate for the presidency still stands.

Rockefeller insisted on the NBC-TV program, "Meet the Press," that his recent critical statement concerning Nixon and administration policies was made to insure that there would be adequate debate of national issues before the GOP convention.

Producer Lawrence E. Spivak asked: "Governor, in December of last year when you withdrew you said this, and I quote: 'I am not and shall not be a candidate for nomination for the presidency. This decision is definite and final.' There have been rumors now that there's been a change. Does that statement still stand?"

"It does," said Rockefeller.

He denied he was trying to stop the nomination of Nixon, saying he was interested in the vitality of the party.

This vitality, he said, could best be served by a debate of national issues prior to the convention.

He said he did not speak out prior to the summit conference in deference to its importance and added that no debate would be feasible following the selection of a candidate when the party must present a united front.

"I think I'm doing the greatest service to the Republican party that I can by raising these issues," Rockefeller said when asked, in view of his noncandidacy statements and his criticism, "Are you a Republican?"

He referred to talk of his becoming the GOP vice-presidential candidate as a "dead issue."

INSURGENT CAPTURED BY PEASANTS

Castro Opponent Is Seized by Patrol

TRIBUNAL COULD SET DEATH SENTENCE

HAVANA (AP) — An ex-army captain who tried to stir up a revolt against Prime Minister Fidel Castro in the Prime Minister's old revolutionary stamping grounds is reported in the hands of Cuban military authorities Sunday.

A five-man peasant patrol flushed insurgent Manuel Beaton out of hiding in the rugged Sierra Maestra and captured him at dawn Friday, army headquarters said Saturday night.

Beaton carried a pistol, but no shots were fired when the peasant militiamen closed in on him in La Bayamita, about 40 miles west of Santiago. Army officials declined to give further details.

The announcement said Beaton was alone when picked up and his capture completed the round-up of 16 insurgents who had eluded pursuers for months in the rugged wastes of the Sierras. The army said Beaton will be tried by a military tribunal which could give him the death sentence.

The capture report gave a tremendous propaganda boost to Castro's "Peoples army" — a growing network of armed civilian militia.

Castro had led a large number of troops into the mountains last month in unsuccessful pursuit of Beaton.

The capture signals an end to the most bothersome—or at least the most publicized—faction of armed opposition to Castro. There are persistent reports, however, of other small rebel bands operating in Camaguey and Las Villas provinces.

Beaton sprang to nationwide attention in April after the government charged he shot and killed peasant leader Francisco Temayo. Officials said Temayo had gone into the hills to urge Beaton's surrender.

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. If You Live Long Enough
● Head Injuries
● Personality

Q. I am 62 years old and have never been seriously ill. However, my hearing is not what it was a few years ago. I seem to hear other sounds like musical notes okay but have trouble understanding speech. Can this condition be helped?

A. Saints or sinners, mice or men, all animals who possess hearing will, if they live long enough, suffer from what doctors call presbycusis (pronounced prez-bi-koo'-sis). As we advance in years our hearing becomes somewhat dulled and it becomes harder and harder to understand speech. Presbycusis and other expressions of aging can develop early or late. The tissues of the body age at different rates. Biologically, aging is spotty. Some parts of the body may be considered "old" even before we are born. There is not much that can be done to prevent or cure presbycusis (difficulty in discriminating sounds) but in some cases a hearing aid helps. The only way to tell whether an aid would be useful is to have a complete and thorough examination by a doctor who specializes in hearing disorders.

Q. After a blow on the head or striking the head in falling, children often become sleepy and will often vomit. I have always heard that they should be kept awake. Is this the right thing to do?

A. It is advisable to awaken a child who has been injured in this way from time to time but it is not necessary to keep him awake. By arousing the child every hour or so you can be sure that he has not lapsed into a stupor or coma. If he can not be awakened it is a sure sign of serious trouble. A doctor should be called at once.

Q. Does the personality change or do we stay pretty much the same throughout life?

A. Basic personality is difficult to change. However, by exercising self-discipline it is often possible to suppress certain objectionable aspects of personality and foster more desirable ones. Then too, as we grow older we tend to mature emotionally and this often improves personality.

Nanette's Mother Gives Consent For Marriage to Soldier

BITBURG, Germany (AP)—Patricia Wallace Vanderbilt said Sunday night she has agreed to her daughter's plan to marry an American soldier and has given her permission in writing.

In a telephone interview from Luxembourg, Mrs. Vanderbilt said: "Yes, I have given my consent and the wedding will be soon."

She added that she could not say just how soon.

"There are many formalities," she explained. "And, you know, the Army is involved."

Army authorities at the U. S. air base in Bitburg, Germany, had informed her that completion of the necessary papers may take anywhere from one to six weeks, she said.

Specialist 5.C. Wiley M. Lockamy, 23, of Clinton, N.C., who is to marry Mrs. Vanderbilt's daughter Nanette, 19, is stationed at Bitburg. It was there that the couple announced their plan to wed.

"The wedding will mostly likely take place in Bitburg, I expect," Mrs. Vanderbilt, the divorced fifth wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt, said. She added that she was planning to go back to Bitburg Monday "to sign some more papers."

"I plan to stay here until the wedding," she said. "But I suppose I shall be going to and fro quite a bit to take care of all formalities."

Mrs. Vanderbilt and her daughter are staying at the Cravat Hotel in Luxembourg City, where they arrived some days ago from Bitburg.

Earlier, U.S. Army Sgt. Warren E. Sullivan said in Bitburg that Nanette and Lockamy were going to get married "in the nearest future."

"I expect them back here shortly, possibly tomorrow," Sullivan added. It was in the Bitburg home of Sgt. and Mrs. Sullivan that Nanette and Lockamy announced their plan to get married.

Nanette disappeared from a hotel at Cannes, on the Riviera, and showed up here with Lockamy. Mrs. Vanderbilt, followed her daughter to Bitburg and first asked Nanette to wait a while before marriage.

Lockamy's commanding officer at Bitburg air base has given his written permission for the soldier to get married, Sullivan said, and the ceremony probably will take place in the registrar's office here.

Former Opera Tenor Dies of Heart Attack

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Armand Tokatyan, former Metropolitan Opera Co. tenor, died of a heart attack Sunday at the age of 64.

He appeared at the Metropolitan during 18 seasons from 1922 to 1946 and sang many of the roles made famous by the late Enrico Caruso in "Carmen," "La Boheme," "Il Trovatore," "Rigoletto" and "La Traviata."

He had lived quietly in Pasadena for the past eight years, devoting most of his time to coaching young singers.

Tokatyan was to have been the guest of honor Sunday at an Opera Society fete in nearby San Bernardino. He was stricken early in the day and taken to a hospital, where he died. He had suffered a heart attack last summer but friends said he appeared in good health recently.

Of Armenian descent, Tokatyan was born in Alexandria, Egypt, and made his opera debut in 1921 in Milan, Italy, singing the tenor role in Puccini's "Manon Lescaut." He later became identified with the leading roles in Puccini operas.

Tokatyan had been a member of opera companies throughout the world—in San Francisco, Chicago, Philadelphia, Italy, Austria, Germany, England, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

In 1950, he was granted a divorce from his wife Antoinette, a voice teacher, after a 26-year marriage.

"She often complained that I was making violent love to the soprano on the stage. I kept on telling her that on the stage any woman I sing with is for me just another artist—another piece of furniture. There is nothing to it," he testified.

He is survived by a son, Leon, and a daughter, Gloria. Funeral arrangements were being made.

Prisoner Backs Reward Claimant

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A city street cleaner seeking part of a reward for helping capture a safecracking gang has received some unexpected support—from a member of the gang.

George Mallard claims it was his tip on the getaway car that led to the capture of the gang earlier this year. Police said his tip wasn't that important and that he had the color of the car wrong.

Saturday the Tennessean received a letter that said in part, "He was right about the color of the car. I was convinced on this charge and received three to 10 years. I guess he is the one who really started the ball rolling."

It was signed, "Herbert Brown Fields, 53329."

Mallard plans to talk with postal officials, who paid the $2,100 reward to seven city policemen. The alleged activities of the gang included 18 post office burglaries.

Strange Candidates Appear

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—For some Pennsylvanians the major contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination were Senator Cenedi, Humbert Hunprey, Adalia Stevenson and Stuart Simaton.

The State Elections Bureau discovered this last week while going through write-in votes from the April 26 presidential preference primary.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was the only one who officially entered the primary, so his name was printed on the ballot. He won, hands down, over Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, also known as Rockerfeller, Rocakfella and Rockenfelder.

Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts had the most votes on the Democratic side, and perhaps for that reason his name suffered the most.

There were votes for Robert Kennedy, his brother, Joseph Kennedy, his father, Richard Kennedy, James Kennedy, William Kennedy, Tom Kennedy, T. Kennedy, Canady and Kennydey.

Ealnor Roosevelth received a vote, as did Barry Coldwater, Patrick Henry and Andy Gump.

Motherly Ape Loses Kitten

TROY, N.C. (AP)—A tube of lipstick, a handful of turnip greens and a mirror added up to a parting of the ways for Maggie the ape and her pet white kitten. And Carlton Hannah's backyard zoo here has grown to two cages.

Hannah slipped a mirror inside the cage last week to distract Maggie's attention from the kitten, which she captured when it strayed too near the cage two weeks ago. Hannah feared the motherly, 12-year-old ape would crush her pet.

Maggie was further diverted when a visitor dropped a lipstick into the cage. The ape smeared the goo on her lips and face, and also streaked kitty until it looked like a fuzzy barber pole.

Finally, Mae Hannah, the owner's mother, pushed a breakfast of turnip greens into the cage. Maggie grabbed a handful and retreated to her perch, leaving the kitten near the cage opening. Mrs. Hannah made a successful grab.

Now Maggie paces unceasingly about her cage, while in another cage 20 feet away, kitty meows as if she's lost her mother.

Capitalism and communism stand at opposite poles. Their essential difference is this: The communist, seeing the rich man and his fine home, says: "No man should have so much." The capitalist, seeing the same thing, says: "All men should have as much."

Education Aid Far Off?

A number of formidable hurdles still stand in the way of enactment of legislation authorizing Federal subsidies for education.

The House—for the first time in history—approved a program for Federal subsidies for general school construction. The amount authorized was $1.3 billion, spread over four years.

This compares with the Senate—approved $1.8 billion program, spread over two years, for both school construction and teachers' salaries.

Before any measure becomes law, agreement must be reached on the two different versions—and the resulting legislation must be signed by President Eisenhower.

Among the hurdles confronting the legislation are these—any one of which could kill it:

1. President Eisenhower's veto power. Administration supporters had contended all along that a veto was likely unless the legislation under consideration was drastically modified.

During the House debate, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Flemming actively sought a compromise to require that Federal funds be matched each year by the states on a 50-50 basis and that the money be disbursed on the basis of need and not merely on the basis of school population irrespective of need.

The House accepted considerably less than one-half of the compromise. It agreed only in part to the matching proposal and rejected the needs test entirely.

The House vote on the measure was 206 to 189—far less than the two-thirds required to override a veto. The earlier Senate vote was 51 to 34—also less than two-thirds.

2. Many southern Senators are regarded as certain to filibuster the legislation if an attempt should be made to obtain Senate approval of the bill in the form in which it was passed by the House.

The southerners objected particularly to an amedment, offered by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY) and accepted by the House, which would deny Federal aid to any school district refusing to obey a court integration order.

3. Even if the measure is finally approved by Congress and signed by the President, further action would be necessary to provide funds.

The legislation now under consideration merely authorizes the spending. Any funds actually made available would have to be voted later.

During the House debate, convincing arguments were presented to show that the need for school construction was rapidly being met on the state and local levels—and that the Federal government would stay out of this field of activity.

Here is the way Rep Allen (R-Ill.) summed up the opposition arguments:

"I say that I am opposed to the bill, first, because the Federal government does not have the money and would be obliged to borrow it for future generations to pay back.

"Second, because all the states are better off financially than the Federal Government.

"Third, because the education of our children should be considered a local responsibility.

"Fourth, because it is the beginning of Federal finanical assistance which will ultimately end in Federal financial assistance for teacher's salaries, school equipment and textbooks.

"Fifth, because above all our schools should be free of Federal controls and domination."

Out at Second

THE fellow was going to compose a drinking song but he never got past the first two bars.

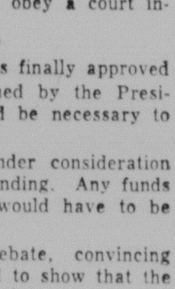
PUNKIN CORNERS,
June 12.

Editor, The Mercury,
Dear Sir 'n' Brother:

Wal, I see by the papers where fat people are safer auto drivers than thin folk, a traffic expert declares. Wonder if he means that, though they have plenty of weight, they're less inclined to throw it around.



An old-auto museum with 100 pre-1914 gas buggies on display has been opened in a French chateau. Probably the fanciest used car lot in the world!

With the approach of Father's day, Dad has begun his annual worrying that the family will probably give him a gift he won't be able to afford.

And say: Every husband drafted into aiding Spring housecleaning owes Hubert Booth of England a debt. He invented the vacuum cleaner!

Have Fun, or Learn At School?

Why the Outside Work?

To the Editor: There was comment in The Mercury on school kids selling festival tickets, doing all sorts of outside work instead of studying their books.

There was just as quick defense of this, because the defenders say it made the ticket-sellers self-sufficient, or something akin.

It is interesting to note a statement by Dean John H. Fischer, in a commencement address at Columbia university, New York.

Dean Fischer, in essence, urged that "intellectual competence" be given top priority in the schools. He deprecated the idea of schools acting as centers for entertainment, civic and charitable enterprises.

"A school free to concentrate on those services that only schools can give is in a position to do more effective teaching than one that must be all things to all children and their parents, too," the dean remaked.

Many non-educational features of the schools had to be taken over originally by default, he pointed out.

Communities, for various reasons, wanted their schools to assume other than educational functions.

Thus, under pressure, the schools have been assigned responsibilities in medicine, social-case work and clinc psychology.

School people often accepted these additional burdens in attempts to win the goodwill of pressure groups.

Dean Fischer rejected the idea that teachers, as public servants, should be entirely subject to the desires of their communities and "seen but not heard." Puplic policy in regard to education must, in the end, be sanctioned by the pubilc but at the same time respect for expert and professional advice is essential.

Education for Citizenship

To the Editor: It seems to me that we in America are trying to train people without much thought of educating them.

We must admit now or later that some people neither can be trained nor educated.

The implied slogan in America is "Go to college so you may get an easy job and make money."

Seldom ever is heard, "Go to college so you can make a better citizen."

The landlords in America are busy studying a man's income rather than his philosophy of life.

We must begin to train youth for citizenship.

How to Stop Slaughter

To the Editor: In answer to Haitch Lee, ("Abolish Memorial Day?" Readers Say, June 10):

You need not do away with Memorial Day, just the stupid drivers to stop the slaughter.

I am a long distance truck driver and I have traveled over a million miles without an accident and not a speeding fine.

I put my brakes on to let people in, who pass where they should not. That is the answer. I run one round a week, Philadelphia to Chicago to New York.

I could cause people to be slaughted if I didn't put my brakes on to let them in. They have no right to pass.

Don't abolish Memorial Day.

Put sense into the car driver's head. Why the hurry on a holiday?

I have to drive on them, but I use some commonsense because I know there are fools on the road. Just think!

Raises All Around!

To the Editor: There are several ways to get a raise—become better at your job, get a more advanced job, marry the boss's daughter.

But when the government decrees a wage increase for just about everyone it's a different kind of raise, and does little good.

Crocks of crocodile tears will be shed in this session of Congress as efforts are made to boost the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25. It will be said that $1 an hour is not a "living wage," and it isn't. Hetty Green herself couldn't support a typical family of 4.3 persons, or whatever the figure is today, on it.

The problem is clear, but the solution is murky. For a $1.25 minimum wage leads automatically to a $1.50 one, then a $1.75 one through the years.

And in each case it will be quickly recognized by all that the minimum, be it $1 or $5 an hour, is not a "living wage."

This always will be true, because when the newest, least skilled hand in the place gets a 25 cent raise, a similar raise is required for the man working next to him, who has a smidgeon more skill or a bit of seniority. This makes mandatory a wage boost for the man next to him, until you have a chain reaction of wage increases throughout the economy.

But all this produces no more to be bought, and prices quickly adjust upward. Mean while, some folks' income will be lagging—those on pensions, city payrolls and the like. They'll be able to buy less, which will mean fewer jobs at any wage. All levels of government will be hit by the price increases, which will mean more tax increases.

In other words, artificially boosting everyone's pay would mean another round of dreaded inflation. We've already proved this several times. And those at the bottom of the economic totem pole are about as poorly off as before.

SINCE GAMBLE Benedict Porumbeanu risks arrest if she sets foot in New York—because she eloped with her Andre while enjoined to remain in the jurisidiction of a Manhattan court—the newlyweds have been "circling" Gotham while awaiting a better deal from Gamble's grandmother.

They've amused themselves in Canada, Connecticut, Westchester and New Jersey, but of all the night spots they've visited their favorite is Paris in the Sky, atop the Suburban Hotel in East Orange, N. (Incidental intelligence Andre is a fast fellow with a buck—he tipped the orchestra $30 to play "their songs" and enhanced the entertainment by singing "The Blue Danube" in Romanian. Name five other fellows who can do that!)

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

ADA V., aged 20, is a college Senior.

"Dr. Crane, I never was interested in hiking or athletics until the past year," she began.

"Now I notice that I haven't the endurance of the other girls. I had a medical examination, but everything seemed to be okay except my heart wasn't quite as large as normal.

"Dr. Crane, would my smaller heart explain my shortness of breath when I now try to run up a hill or play a set of tennis?"

WHEN OUR children were younger, they raised rabbits. They started out with one apiece as a pet, but soon the proliferation of this species kept us supplied with a considerable amount of meat.

One day I called the attention of our two oldest boys to the size of the hearts in these tame rabbits, in contrast to the hearts of the wild rabbits we had shot during the Winter hunting season on our farm.

Although our tame rabbits are much bigger than the wild species, the hearts of the wild ones are actually larger.

For the smaller wild rabbits would run over wide areas during their growth, and thus exercise their hearts far more than our tame species, which were confined to a small hutch.

MOST PEOPLE fail to realize that the heart muscle responds to regular exercise just as does the biceps.

It is thus wise for youngsters to obtain a great deal of outdoor exercise, not only for the sunlight and lung expansion which result, but also because their hearts thereby grow larger.

The trained heart has thus become larger so it can supply adequate blood through the arteries and veins with less beats per minute.

In time of fever or other strain upon the heart, as pneumonia or heart attack, the larger, more muscular heart can thus stand the extra load more easily than the small heart.

Inside Television

By EVE STARR

STARR REPORT: One of the more interesting arguments put forth by the pay-TV proponents goes like this:

"We start small, but the start is all we need. Let's say that we stage 'My Fair Lady' and that we draw 10 percent of the audience away from the normal free channels. That will more than pay our production costs. We keep this up. Finally it becomes apparent that the cost-per-thousand price to the sponsors of the free shows is going up because their audience has diminished by 10 percent.

There is only one answer for them—cut down on the quality of their shows. As the quality is cut, more viewers turn to pay-TV. More audience is lost to the free shows. Again the cost-per-thousand goes up and turn to pay-TV. The result is inevitable."

THIS IS a neat and tidy little argument but it seems to me there are enough holes in it to drive a small fleet of trucks through.

First, it blithely assumes that the wiring of some 50,000,000 homes for pay-TV is all but an accomplished fact, which it isn't.

Second, it assumes that viewers will be content with one show per night and will be willing to pay for it to boot.

Third, it assumes that every show put on by pay-TV will be so good that people will lay cash on the line for it in favor of a free show.

This last one I don't believe for a single split second.

THE CURRENT films would seem to indicate that money is no guarantee of quality and success. To compound the error, the airing of a Cinemascope-Technicolor picture on a 21-inch screen in black and white is hardly going to enhance that picture—and more often than not, size and color are about all the picture has to offer.

You can, of course, break the back of a ten-dollar bill with one family outing to a movie. Pay-TV will offer the same movie for $1.

But it you're going to watch a movie a night on pay-TV, you're going to wind up paying $30 a month—and how many families have a $30 a month entertainment budget?

Further, where is pay-TV going to get 30 good pictures a month? That's 360 pictures a year, and Hollywood hasn't turned out 360 pictures in one year since the mid-Thirties.

And that's just pictures, not necessarily good pictures.

Interpreting The News

Will Ike Be Safe? Answer Is No

By NATE POLOWETZKY
Associated Press Observer

Will President Eisenhower be safe during his visit to Japan next week?

Based on past performance by Japanese police, the answer is "no" if left-wing demonstrators want to make things tough for the President.

These demonstrators have had pretty much of a field day in Tokyo. They have been able to smash into the grounds of Parliament, keep White House press secretary James C. Hagerty a prisoner in his car for 80 minutes, break down the gate to Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's official residence and march unchecked through the city.

All this with little or no police resistance.

The only thing that has kept the crowds from doing ugly things has been the restraint of the leaders, for their own good reasons.

If they want to make things rough for Eisenhower when he arrives here next Sunday, they can do it.

Since the end of World War II, Japanese police have been trying to erase their old reputation for brutality. Officials obviously have been counting on public opinion to turn against the demonstrators and, in turning, give approval for stronger police tactics.

There has been some such change in the public attitude but it hasn't had any effect on the left-wing unions and radical students or on the police handling of the crowds.

There has been talk of more stringent security arrangements for Eisenhower's visit. But unless the police are told to use clubs, tear gas, and strongarm tactics they cannot keep a determined crowd of leftists from doing what they want.

There has also been mention of police arrests of leaders of the demonstrations. But thus far this has been aimed only at "punishing" those responsible for the Hagerty incident.

Even if top leaders are arrested, there are plenty of others to take their places. The Communist party, which has taken a more active role in the demonstrations lately, is organized in cells, with each member trained to take the place of an arrested leader.

Zengakuren, the radical organization of university students which has been the biggest perpetrator of violence thus far, is organized the same way. It would require the arrest of hundreds of student leaders to hurt the movement.

Sohyo, the giant Red-tinged labor federation which is the backbone of the Socialist party, provides too many leaders to be arrested, without risking wide labor unrest.

A glimmer of hope is that no leader of the demonstrators has expressed a desire to harm Eisenhower. They claim they are anti-Kishi not anti-Eisenhower.

ALL AROUND THE TOWN

Get Your Hand Ready... Big Push Is Coming...

★ CLASP — Steel yourself for that solid grip, brother. The lodge isn't meeting tonight, but come this Fall you're going to need a firm grasp! Hundreds of office seekers will be out this election year shaking hands with the man on the street and the woman in the supermarket. Though the friendly handshake is a political and social institution of great antiquity, no one knows exactly how or where it began. The best-known explanation is that the right hand holds weapons, so ancients extended an empty right hand to show peaceful intent. Another theory suggests that people got into the habit of clasping right hands as a sign of assistance. In Babylon, the leading politician had to shake at least one hand a year. During the new year festival, custom required Babylon's king to grasp the hands of the image of Marduk to signify he received his authority directly from that deity. . . .

HAND TAKING was part of the ancient Hindu marriage ceremony. Romans clasepd hands in court as a sign of agreement, peace, or friendship. This became the Christian practice of extending the right hand of fellowship. The handshake traveled with western culture. It even affected the customs of American Indians, who had greeted friends with various gestures, including blowing in one another's ears. . . .

★ IN THE 1880 annual report of the Smithsonian Institution's Bureau of Ethnology, Garrick Mallery noted that "shaking hands on meeting" was the "annoying etiquette of Indians in their intercourse with whites." He said, however, that this "foreign importation" was a recent innovation and rarely used between Indians. Mallery added, rather testily: "The senseless and inconvenient custom of shaking hands is, indeed, by no means general throughout the world, and in the extent to which it prevails in the United States is the subject of ridicule by foreigners." Across the Pacific, meanwhile, Thai children were being taught the "senseless" custom to replace the traditional "wai" greeting in which the palms are pressed gently together. . . .

THOUGH the handshake has spread, it is still not universal. It finds its counterpart in many other forms ranging from weeping to kissings. A Chinese of the old order shakes his own hands. The Ainu people of Japan make guests feel welcome by rubbing their own palms together. Andamon Islanders blow into one another's hand. A Lapp places one hand on a friend's shoulder in a half-embrace. The inhabitants of bleak Tierra del Fuego employ the hands in a bone-crushing bear hug. A Moslem shakes hands with thumbs up, then touches his breast, forehead, and lips to express respect and affection. . . .

★ MANY PRIMITIVE peoples indulge in ceremonial crouching and weeping. Aborigines of Australia and New Zealand, for example, meet with loud lamentation to commemorate friends who have died since the last encounter. The ceremonial kiss has declined in recent centuries. The Dutch scholar Erasmus, who died in 1536, said a really well-mannered caller started his visit by kissing his host, hostess, all the children, and the dog and the cat. The quaint custom survives, perhaps, in the predilection of office seekers for kissing babies.

Your Health

EXPECTING a baby this Summer?

Well, there are certain advantages and disadvantages to giving birth to a youngster during the hot Summer months; not that you can do much about it now, anyway.

The disadvantages, of course, include those Summer annoyances, diaper rash and prickly heat.

With a little common sense—something all new parents need in abundance — you can solve both problems fairly easily.

You may have a tendency to keep the infant clad in waterproof panties. Don't do it, particularly during the hot weather. Nothing will cause diaper rash to develop so quickly as clothing a baby in waterproof pants throughout the night.

As a matter of fact, I suggest you throw caution to the wind and give that wet little bottom a good airing each day during the warm weather. Let the tot sleep in the raw for at least half an hour a day.

You will have to change diapers more frequently during the Summer months.

I think that you will find it easier to prevent prickly heat if you let the baby sleep on a couple of diapers during the really hot days. These will help absorb the perspiration that his little body is bound to produce.

Baby powder and sponge baths also will help keep prickly heat problems to a minimum.

Naturally, the baby will be much more comfortable if he can spend the hot weather in an air-conditioned room. But don't make the mistake of trying to freeze him.

The temperature should be kept to a comfortable 68 to 70 degrees. No matter what the temperature may be outside, I don't recommend that the baby's room be kept any cooler than this.

The big advantage of having a baby during the Summer is that you can take him outside much more quickly than if he were born in the dead of Winter.

And that first walk with him in the baby carriage will make those last few uncomfortable months seem well worth while.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. B. J.: Are raw eggs especially good for a TB patient?

Would inhaling fresh air each morning be helpful to a person with active TB?

Answer: Adequate diet and good ventilation are useful in the treatment of active tuberculosis, but are definitely secondary to rest, specific drugs and other methods of treatment.

Army Lady's Retirement Is Symbol of Her Work

MRS. MARY NEIMAN

The personal courage that sustained Pottstown's "Salvation Army mom" through 50 years of service to charity was witnessed personally by 100 persons Sunday night.

Mrs. Mary Neiman fell and injured her shoulder four hours before she was to appear at the Citadel for services officially retiring her from the Army.

The 81 year old grand mother not only appeared for the service capping her outstanding Army career, but calmly sat through the hour-long program despite constant pain from her left arm suspended in a sling.

Mrs. Neiman will go to the hospital today for an X-ray of the arm and shoulder. A physician who examined her said there is a possibility of fracture.

* * *

MRS. NEIMAN fell at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of a son in law and daughter with whom she resides, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Eckenrode, 420 South Main street, Spring City. It was her second fall and shoulder injury in 10 months.

Tributes of word and money were paid to the retiring Senior member of the Army by the organization's leaders.

Captain C. Robert Flinn, officer in charge, said, "The Salvation Army would not be today what it is in the Pottstown area had it not been for the unceasing efforts of your collecting. You have greatly helped to finance our far-reaching services."

Capt. Flinn also spoke of "the many wishes of goodwill you have rekindled in the hearts of many who would have otherwise lacked faith and hope.

"During your collection work you have encouraged those you came in contact with. The 'God Bless You's' you have left with people have not ceased to be of great help and inspiration to the recipients."

THE ARMY leader concluded by wishing Mrs. Neiman "many more years of useful Christian service."

Captain Ruth Flinn, wife of the commanding officer, pinned a carnation corsage on Mrs. Neiman and thanked her for her service of 30 years as treasurer of the Women's Home league.

Mrs. Mildred Brunner, head of the Sunday school department, expressed appreciation on behalf of the citadel membership for her half century of service. She complimented Mrs. Neiman for her "faithfulness and loyalty" as the Army's oldest member and for "setting an example of what an Army lassie should be."

Mrs. Ruth Linton, past president of the Women's auxiliary presented a cash gift on behalf of the auxiliary and said, "We always admired the work Mary did over the years. We knew it was not everyone who could do the job as well or as willingly as she did it."

Another cash gift was presented by William Beury, Citadel secretary, as a remembrance from her fellow Citadel members and the advisory board.

Town Delayed In Choosing Policeman

West Pottsgrove township is still without a police chief—and it will be at least Thursday night until any official action is taken to get one.

Charles H. Frech, chairman of the township police committee, said Sunday night the committee cannot meet until Thursday because two members will be out of town until then. Russell Mast and Mrs. Arlene Yost, township secretary, are attending the annual convention of first class township commissioners near Reading.

According to Elmer E. Hampton, president of the township commissioners, no one has been contacted concerning the job since William A. Mars announced Friday he will not accept it.

Mars, a former Pottstown patrolman now on the West Goshen (Chester county) police force, had been the police committee's choice to succeed James V. Guadagno.

There were 13 other applicants for the position of police chief.

CAR BURNS

A car owned by Dewey S. Binder, 507 East Philadelphia avenue, Boyertown, caught fire Sunday night at 9:45 o'clock when it was struck by another auto. Binder's car was parked in front of his home at the time.

A pumper from Keystone Fire company, Boyertown, extinguished the blaze.

THE CARL HONTZ family, Elverson, guessed the following: Mr. Hontz, Aug. 15 at 2:05 p.m.; Mrs. Hontz, Aug. 5 at 2:27 p.m.; Carla Sue, July 31 at 3:15 p.m.; Douglass, July 31 at 3:15 p.m.

$100 Lucky Buck Found by Shopper

dren will get a "little something special," since it was the beads for their church classes that led the Knasters into Town Toy company, 363 High street.

"And I'll get something, too, though I haven't figured out what," Knaster exclaimed. "There won't be any problem on how to spend it. You can be sure of that."

THE KNASTERS came close to missing the giant Lucky Buck put into circulation Friday morning. They went into Town Toy to purchase wooden beads for the arts-and-crafts class, and were about to walk out when the store didn't have any.

"But Charles said he needed a net for the basketball game we bought him, so we bought that. When we went home we checked the bills. It was one of the last ones we checked," Knaster explained.

The Knasters brought home all the $1 bills they had received in change and checked them against the list. "Two others just missed and we were as excited about them as the one we won on—because we only thought it was a $3 winner," Knaster reported.

He checked the bill at The Mercury, Hanover and King streets, just seconds after the office opened Saturday morning.

"I don't know what I was thinking when they told me it was worth $100. The children made so much noise I couldn't even hear what I was saying."

Mrs. Knaster, an employe at Rosemont Dress company, High street and Moser road, missed the celebration in The Mercury office, but had her own when she heard the good news at home.

"It's just wonderful . . . It's just wonderful," she kept repeating.

OTHER WINNERS were just as happy.

Mrs. Lydia Kamar, Phoenixville, picked up her lucky bill—worth $10—at Wilke furniture house, Queen and Madison streets.

Three people claimed $5 winners. They were Clarence E. Albright, 324 North Charlotte street, who was shopping at Bunting's, High and Hanover streets; Nancy C. Madeja, Boyertown RD 1, who was shopping at Wolf's China store, 207 High street; and Mrs. Janice Gilbert, Bechtelsville RD 1, who was shopping at Milton's Youth center, 221 High street.

And for 14 other Lucky Buck checkers, there were $3 prizes.

But one of the $3 Lucky Bucks took the long way home.

A bill that started at Pep Boys, 323 High street, was picked up by Mrs. Maurice E. Kurtz, 315 Master street, at the Potato market, 380 High street.

Which just proves that some not-too-wide-awake citizen let the Lucky Buck slip through his—or her—fingers.

AND JUST as 19 lucky people won over the weekend, you can win this week.

And in this collection of Lucky Bucks will be a $50 bill placed in circulation Saturday, another one placed in circulation today, and four more to be placed in circulation between tomorrow and Friday.

And Saturday another $100 Lucky Buck will be placed in circulation in one of the 58 stores co-operating with The Mercury in this fun-to-play contest.

The Lucky Buck $3 winners were:

Fely Carr, Douglassville; Mrs. C. K. Rudisill, Pottstown RD 3; Carl G. Wilson, 310 North Charlotte street; Joseph L. Montrose, Kauffman road; Hubert J. Ullman, Pottstown RD 3; Mrs. John Hopkins, 968 Hale street; Mary Foley, 907 North Charlotte street; Mrs. Terry Deputy, Glen Moore.

Also Mrs. Wanda Levengood, Pottstown Route 18; Mrs. Joel W. Weikel, 224½ North Charlotte street; Susan Snyder, Pottstown RD 2; Bruce Harp, 168 West Main street, South Pottstown and Walter Sakiewicz, 104 Warren street.

Community Built Sewers While It Built Itself

the older areas. And he said, "The crux of the sewage disposal problem is in the intial cost. When you have a number of plants and a duplication of facilities, people are saddled with unnecessary debt . . . through improper planning."

Only a short time ago Levittown was a 5500 acre expanse of farmland, dotted with occasional homes and farm buildings.

The vast community building venture at the bend of the Delaware river between Philadelphia and Trenton went into planning in 1951, and nine months later the roads and water and sewer systems were under construction.

Levitt recognized the need for sewage facilities, and took care of it the most inexpensive way he could think of.

HIS PARTICULAR problem was that Levittown is not a political entity. It has a post office, but the community is located in Tullytown borough, Falls, Bristol and Middletown townships.

Levitt could have made a deal for each township to provide service for its area, but he realized the logical answer was to build a system on his own and lease it to an authority.

Levittown has more than 17,000 homes, and will have an eventual population of 70,000 people, making it the tenth largest "city" in the State.

The Bucks authority was formed in June, 1952, and has floated 11 bond issues worth $3 million to pay Levitt for the facilities on a lease agreement, as well as to purchase the sewage collection and water distribution systems.

The authority pays the Levittown, Pennsylvania corporation $385,000 a year.

THE SYSTEM, besides representing unique planning and foresight, does the job for rates equal to some of the lowest in the State — an average yearly rental to a homeowner of $24, plus another $6 a year if you have a garbage disposal unit.

Besides the Lower Bucks authority, there are several other sewer systems in the immediate area. The Falls township authority was formed before the Lower Bucks organization, to provide sewer service for Fairless Hills.

Blattler said the two systems would be together were it not that Falls township did not anticipate Levittown coming along.

Fairless Hills' interceptor sewers and its trunk to its treatment plant on Neshaminy creek parallel the Lower Bucks sewer for a distance. "It makes me sick to think what we could have done—had we known," Blattler said.

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP formed an authority in 1950 to provide a sewage system for the remainder of its residents. Blattler explained this did not indicate a lack of co-operation.

The part of the township the new plant will serve is removed from the Levitt system by unconquerable difficulties in the lay of the land.

But 1500 Middletown residents near Levittown are coming into the Lower Bucks authority interceptor sewer lines. The new Middletown authority is building a collection system for these folks.

Bristol township is forming an authority of its own, and the organization is "on paper." Again, topography is such that a treatment plan will have to be built in Bristol. But another large area will be sewered and tied into the Lower Bucks system, where it is feasible.

BLATTLER SAID this complex of arrangements and co-operation between communi s is necessary because of the enormous cost of building the facilities, and the cost is rising.

He said Fairless Hills residents may pay twice as much as Levittown people, simply because of the nature of the land and the fact Levitt's project was cheaper being larger. New systems will exceed this in cost.

Blattler said communities without sewer at this moment should immediately plan about 50 years ahead and map a master plan.

Briefed on the Pottstown-Pottsgroves combination possibilities for sewer co-operation, he said it should be obvious the only answer is a cooperative venture.

"Anytime you bring in more areas, you can't help but save money," Blattler said. "You must have unity, if at all possible . . . and the sooner the better."

(Another in a series of articles on multitown sewage systems will appear tomorrow.)

Priest is Honored by Graduates, Parishioners

Rev. Leo J. Letterhouse Notes 45 Years in Priesthood

An East Greenville rector marked his 45th year as a priest Sunday during graduation for pupils of St. Philip Neri school.

The Rev. Leo J. Letterhouse, is rector of St. Philip Neri Catholic church, East Greenville, and of the Church of the Visitation, Green Lane.

Graduated from parochial school were 21 boys and girls of the Upper Perkiomen valley. Eighteen of the graduates were in the school's first enrolment in 1950.

Father Letterhouse told all graduates, "You were good in our grade school, and with the help of God you will continue your fine example in secondary education."

THE GRADUATES will be divided next Fall, since some will attend St. Pius X High school and others will enrol at Central Catholic High school, Allentown.

The boys and girls gave pledges to Father Letterhouse stating the prayers they would say for him on his anniversary.

Faculty members and parishioners likewise wrote hundreds of pledges known to Catholics as a spiritual bouquet.

Father Letterhouse, in a brief ceremony marking his ordination, crowned a statue of the Blessed Mother. The graduates and congregation then sang a song to Father Letterhouse and flooded him with anniversary cards.

IN SCHOOL today, the pupils will conduct another anniversary program for Father Letterhouse and will sing lyrics written by sisters of St. Philip Nier.

The sisters have a tradition of writing words to popular tunes, and last did so for their principal, Sister Dionysia, on her feast day last October.

Writing words now to a tune from "My Fair Lady" were Sisters Dionysia, Marian Carmelita, Miriam de Lourdes and Christine Marie.

Father Letterhouse's anniversary actually was last Thursday. But his being on retreat then prevented any celebration.

HE WAS BORN in Bally, a son of the late Joseph and Susan Letterhouse, and was ordained in 1915 at Josephinum Pontifical college, Worthington, Ohio.

His first 10 years as a priest were in Reading and since 1925 has been in the Upper Perkiomen valley.

He will be 73 on Oct. 6. But on the weekend he received a cake with 45 candles, counting his years as a pastor. Each candle was wrapped in a dollar bill.

Father Letterhouse gave the following awards Sunday to grade school graduates: highest grades in religion, Joseph Taraskas and Christine Hillegass; general excellence and outstanding in mathematics, Florence Piontkowski and the runner up, Neil Bauer; highest attainment in writing, Robert Koestel; highest scholastic standing and school interest, Sandra Dykie; faithful altar boy service, Taraskas; department and scholastic standing, Carol Fogel and Linda Novicki.

For scholarship and leadership, Christine Hillegass; application to classwork, Leon Leonard, Eileen Cogen and Mary Ann Husted; general excellence in the diocesan examinations, Stani Miller; general excellence in social studies, Edward Dobrzynski and Josephine Wetzel; notable assistance in school activities, Rose Marie Critzer; notable improvement in scholastics, Diana Shellaway; medals for safety work, Taraskas and Josephine Hillegass.

Also, general helpfulness throughout the year, Joanne Gaughler, Paul Bauman, George Niemy, Richard Henry and David Wronowski; certificate for perfect attendance, Christine Hillegass and 10 boys and 11 girls in the class received pins for faithful choir service.

Skippack Pastor Addresses Graduates Of C-T School During Baccalaureate

Ursinus College Hall is Scene Of Traditional Ceremony

Seventy-one Seniors of Collegeville-Trappe High school were warned Sunday night in a baccalaureate sermon that "the way in which we conduct ourselves during the next three decades may well determine whether or not civilization continues to exist."

The warning was issued by the Rev. Paul Dershem, pastor of Trinity United Church of Christ, Skippack, at services in Bomberger chapel, Ursinus college.

Quoting from a report of the committee on science and technology of the Democratic advisory committee, the Rev. Dershem noted that "today we face the most critical and dangerous situation in mankind's long history. There is a grave threat to our national survival in an anarchial world in which advanced technology is combined with retarded political development."

"Even if we are not destroyed, the United States may well decline as a world power during the next two or three decades," the Rev. Dershem continued. "If this happens, it will probably not be due to the deterioration of our economic or military capabilities, so much as from the rapid upsurge in the advanced technology of the Soviet Union and Red China."

He warned that the conduct of the graduates during the next three decades "may well determine whether or not civilization continues to exist. Almost certainly our conduct will determine whether or not man can continue to move forward to the new levels of human understanding and betterment which are in our reach."

"Never before," he reminded the graduates, "have we been in the position where the decision of the individual man is so critical in determining the destiny of all mankind."

"All of what I have just said has been to make you aware of the conditions existing in our space age," the Rev. Dershem explained. "I challenge you in the words of the prophet Micah: "What does the Lord require of thee. To do justly, love mercy and walk humbly with God."

'Life is not a dream. Life has with it a purpose, and as young people you have the responsibility and opportunity of planning and constructing a better society upon the foundation of the nations of the world," he explained.

The high school choir, led by William Steltz, sang the Lord's Prayer prior to the Rev. Dershem's sermon. Following the sermon, Mrs. Sylvan Bender, a graduate of the high school, played several selections on the organ.

Commencement exercises will be Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

Nations Need Absolute Moral Behavior Code

Need for a moral code among nations as absolute as that which should obtain between individuals was demanded last week, following the collapse in Paris of the Summit conference.

Dr. Alan Walker, prominent evangelist, told a Methodist Conference in Sidney, Australia, which was discussing the problem, that "nations, including Australia, must be pointed to an absolute moral code of behavior."

Father Frances J. Connell, C. SS. R., writing in Ave Maria, national Catholic weekly, summed up his feelings by saying, "I believe we would be better if we abstained from the degrading business of spying, kept ourselves reasonably prepared against attack, and lived up to our national motto—'In God We Trust'."

Minister Scores Apathy To God

What Is Your Relationship? Asks Rev. Leaming; Does God Leave You Cold?

The question, "What Is There Between You and God?," was asked by the Rev. Lewis C. Leaming Jr., pastor of the First Methodist church Sunday morning.

In his sermon, preached at both morning services, he discussed man's relationship to God. He used the well known parable of the talents and their use as a basis for his talk.

REV. LEWIS C. LEAMING JR.

He said, "Would you answer this question as many would, 'Nothing'? And if your answer is such, what would you mean by "nothing"?

"Would it be as many would have to honestly indicate, that there was no communication between you and God? He leaves you cold?

Would the "nothing" possibly indicate that there is no relationship because you have your ideas and desires? You just don't care what He thinks or who he is?

"Or would the answer indicate a faith in which you have taken Him at his word of love and wisdom? Because you have faith in Him and his Son, who was sent out of that love and wisdom.

" 'Nothing separates you from the love of God as revealed in Jesus Christ.' This is the affirmation Paul makes at the conclusion of the eighth chapter of Romans.

"Some possible answers as to what should or should not be between you and God are suggested in the parable concerning the talents and their use in the 25th chapter of Matthew's gospel.

"The story concerns three men whose lord is going away for awhile. According to their ability, he places in their trust so many talents.

"When the lord returns, he discovers the servant given five talents has developed this into five more talents; the man given two talents has increased it to two more talents.

"They are commended and because they have been faithful in small things they are placed in charge of cities. They are invited to enter into the joy and fellowship of their Lord.

"However, the lord discovers that the servant given one talent has simply buried it in fear of his master whom he accuses of being hard and unjust. The lord takes the talent, gives it to the other who has used his, and banishes the unworthy servant.

"The point of the parable is riveted in the useless servant. He is the man who confessed that he was afraid, thus indicating that there was nothing between him and his Lord by way of communication, faith or understanding.

"Now it is quite clear that Jesus was aiming at those who strove to keep everything, including the law, exactly as they thought it ought to be. Their method involved the paralysis of religious truth and the hatred of everything that was new. This attitude eventually caused them to reject the very one sent of God not to destroy the law but that it might be fulfilled.

"Christ is saying that there can be no religion without adventure and that God can find no use for the shut mind.

"The parable also tells us several other things:

"It tells us that while God gives men differing gifts, they all can achieve equality before him on the basis of the effort put forth to use his talent or talents in the service of his Lord.

"It tells us that the reward of work well done is still more work to do. Large opportunities, greater responsibilities, thus greater satisfaction and achievement.

"The Parable concludes with one of the inexorable laws of life. It is our text Matthew 25:29: 'To him who has—more will be given, from him who has not, what he has will be taken away.'

"Its meaning is demonstrated in every field of living. If a man has talent and exercises it he is progressively able to do more with it. However, if he fails to exercise a talent, he will inevitably lose it.

"As it is true in sports, music, following a profession or vocation—so it is with faith and truth.

"To share and use this God given talent or talents of faith, love and power in accordance with His will, gives us the peace that passes human understanding. It gives to us a wonderful freedom as found in a perfect love which casts out all fear.

"This is our joy and strength —for we are born to serve our fellowman — as we share with God in the building of His kingdom. As someone has said, 'This is the way it is with God. When we listen he speaks; when we obey, God acts.'

"What is there between you and God?"

Private Eye Acts Too Private

A Philadelphia private detective who did his sleuthing too privately was fined $10 and costs in Royersford Saturday night.

Howard J. Gold, Philadelphia, was taken into custody by Patrolman Uriah B. Fox, following complaint that he was following a local resident in his car. The person being followed, not knowing what the detective had in mind or who he was, called the police.

Police explained that if the detective had registered with local police and had told them in advance who he was and what he was doing, everything would have been okay.

The hearing was in borough hall late Saturday night before Justice of the Peace John W. Hunsicker. Gold was charged with disorderly conduct.

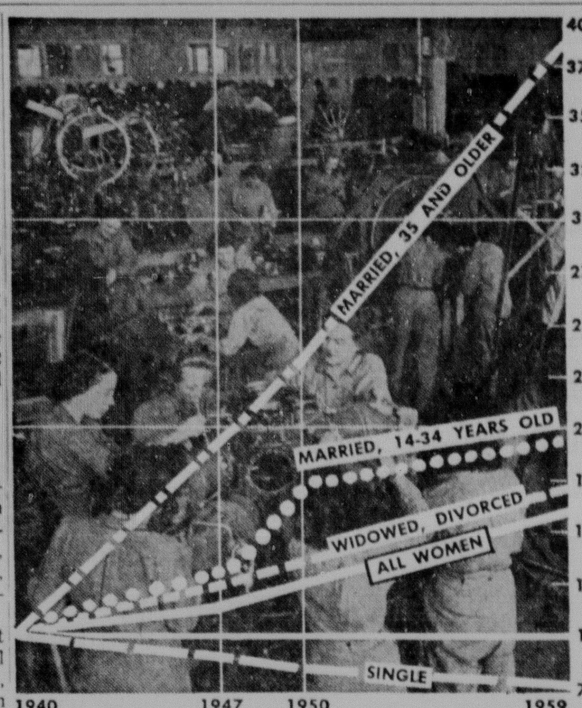
Football Players Conduct Reunion

Football players who played with the old Royersford Athletic association from 1920 through 1924 met for a reunion dinner Saturday night at the Airport Inn, Limerick.

This is the third time the group has conducted a reunion.

Master of ceremonies and chairman was Raymond Hunsberger, Royersford. Twenty-four men attended.

The group decided to have annual banquets on the second Saturday in June and to invite all semi-professional and sandlot players up to and including 1947. That year was the last that semi-professional football was played in Royersford.



HAND THAT ROCKS THE CRADLE ALSO MAKES IT—One out of every three employed persons in the U.S. is a woman, compared to one out of every four in 1940, according to this National Industrial Conference Board chart from the Bureau of Labor Statistics. In 1940, 36 percent of employed women were married. Now it is 61 percent. Taking 100 as the key index for women workers in 1940 projection shows how number has risen (to 22,400,000) and how they were dispersed as of 1959. Thirty million women will have jobs in 1970, Undersecretary of Labor O'Connell told a conference in Washington celebrating the 40th anniversary of establishment of the Women's Bureau in Labor Department.

Baptist Church at Chester Springs Scene of 89th Annual Philips Meet

The 89th consecutive reunion of the descendents of Joseph and Mary Philips was held Saturday at Vincent Baptist church, Chester Springs.

The late Joseph and Mary Philips came to America 205 years ago and settled in Uwchland township.

President of the reunion, C. Helen Hoffman, conducted the business meeting. Thomas Philips led the devotions and pastor of the church, the Rev. William T. Dunn, welcomed the families and gave the story of the stained glass window, entitled the "Good Shepherd," in the front of the church.

The window was presented by the family in 1902 in memory of Joseph and Mary Philips. Mother of the president, the late, Mrs. May Philips Hoffman, headed the committee in making the window possible.

D. C. Knauer read the nominating committee's report and all officers were re-elected. They are: president, C. Helen Hoffman; vice president, George Foreman; secretary, Mrs. Frank Smedley and treasurer, Dr. Cathryn Bishop.

During the program, Ralph Philips, U.S. regional director for the Far East, showed colored slides taken while he was in Tokyo. The Lansdown chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution decorated the grave of revolutionary ancester, the late Josiah Philips.

The family history was presented in rhyme and composed by the late Mrs. Walter L. Philips. It was read by Mrs. Reva Philips Smith. The group participated in depicting the rhyme as to music and sons going off to the Revolutionary war.

Two of the Philips families went West to settle and were represented at the event by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Boyer, from near Pittsburgh and Mr. and Mrs. John Stanley, Rhode Island.

Jane Bellis presented a piano selection. It was reported that 11 died during the past year.

The reunion will be held next year the first Saturday in June at East Nantmeal Baptist church. The oldest person present was Josiah Philips, Downingtown.

raising two sons and a daughter, and baby-sitting for her 11 grandchildren.

Mrs. Stacy married following graduation from a Philadelphia business college and traveled all over the United States with her husband. When he died in 1951, she returned to Philadelphia, then to Pottstown in 1953. Mrs. Johnson also returned to Pottstown after the death of her husband.

REIDENOUER returned in 1924 to Pottstown, opening his own business and becoming active in borough politics and civic activities. He was a member of borough council from 1955 to 1960 and served as treasurer of the Pottstown school district from 1948 to 1953 and the borough from 1946 to 1948. He is chairman of the reunion committee.

Alvin H. Yocom, of Detroit, traveled the longest to attend the reunion. Currently he is consulting engineer for the Society of Automotive Engineers after serving as chief engineer for several automobile firms. He invented four-wheel brakes and the word "decelleration." He was also a partner in the ownership of the first plane and the first three wheeled delivery car in Pottstown.

Another long-distance traveler is Stacy Knopf, of Nantucket, Mass. Knopf retired as a colonel in the Army after serving with distinction in World War II. He graduated from the University of Pennsylvania and the United States Coast Guard academy.

From Sugar Land, Tex., and Largo, Fla., came Adam Lingle Hoffman, retired cashier of the Pure Oil company. He is married, has three children and seven grandchildren, and enjoys duplicate bridge and leather tooling.

THIS YEAR'S host began as a checker in the receiving yards of a steel firm, and rose to yard master of hte company after it was purchased by Bethlehem Steel company. He served for four years as president of Brookside Country club, treasurer of the Community Chest drive for six years, and president of the Seneca club and Pottstown Clubmens association.

The roll call of careers is impressive. John H. Tyson is superintendent of Upper Darby schools; Russell H. Unruh is a New York public accountant; Milton R. Thomas is a Florida realtor; Caroline Sweeney served as head of the Child Welfare department of Children's hospital, Washington, D. C.; J. Ernest Spare is an editor of the Reading Eagle and former city editor of The Mercury; Clyde Shuler is an architect and industrial designer in Media; and William J. Rush is an architect in Coshocton, O.

Also attending were Frances Saylor, Linfield; George M. Mauger, Fagleysville; Vivian (Ludwick) Kern, Golfshire Hills; Frank R. Keim, Sanatoga; and Paul J. Browne, Drexel Hills.

From Pottstown were Warren Baker, 152 Walnut street; Myra (Brey), wife of Robert Wean, 249 Chestnut street; Mrs. Anna (Diemer) Miller, 814 North Evans street; Pierce K. Grimley, Pottstown Route 20; Edna (Ludwig), wife of Kline M. Geyer, 113 North York street; Mrs. Irma (Rapp) Engle, 344 South street; and Mrs. Helen (Reber) Clewell, 160 North Evans street.

2 Men Arrested Early This Morning

Two men were arrested early this morning at Dunn's Service Station, High and Manatawny streets. They were locked up in the borough jail pending investigation later today. Police said they were acting suspicious.

A third man escaped. His footprints led down a steep bank to the Manatawny, then stopped.

Arrested were Robert Castrinoes, 344 Jefferson avenue, and John Sullivan, St. Peters.

Patrolman George Geiger made the arrest.

BOAT FLIPS

fered cuts of both hands and the face when he was caught under the sinking boat named the Betty R. Wife, Kathryn, said he is in satisfactory condition.

SPOTTS OWNED a grist mill and a poultry farm in Earlville for 30 years. He bought the Betty R. about 12 years ago but he and Miller have run a chartering service for fishermen the past quarter century.

The weekend mishap was the first serious accident in their years at sea. The Betty R. was at the mouth of an inlet, when four waves struck in fast succession.

"It was the third wave that swamped the boat. It happened so fast that the fourth wave had nothing to smack into," said Mrs. Spotts.

She estimated the boat had damages and lost equipment totaling several thousand dollars.

Miller who was shaken up in the capsizing, stayed at the scene all of Saturday night and Sunday morning, until the boat was made safe. He then drove home and his wife said he was "so tired he nearly collapsed."

Miller, 50, also was credited with saving two persons who could not swim. After the ship was struck, Miller swam under the boat to get a life raft for two men in the fishing party.

Anti-Peron Forces Rebelling In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, (AP)—Anti-Peronist military and civilian forces rebelled during the night in western Argentina and retired Gen. Furtunato Giovannoni proclaimed himself provisional president.

In a proclamation from a bastion in the foothills of the Andes, Giovannoni accused the government of President Arturo Frondizi of Marxist and Communist tendencies.

Giovannoni, who spent time in jail under the regime of dictator Juan D. Peron, figured in the provisional government of Pedro Aramburu which governed after Peron was toppled in 1955.

Frondizi rushed to the Casa Rosada, his government headquarters, shortly after 1 a.m. and began to confer with his top military and civilian advisers. Among the first to reach the government house was the army secretary Gen. Rodolfo Larcher.

Council Approval

mittee.

Republican Charles M. Shaner moved the recommendation and Democrat Guy Sperat seconded. A bi-partisan approval is expected, as Finance Committee Chairman Wilbur F. O'Dell Jr. asked members of both parties to explain the program in caucuses.

* * *

THE SEALER on the proposed project was the Chamber of Commerce willingness to give the authority the $50,000 fund before work began.

If any of the money is left after 10 years, it will be placed in a revolving fund for further civic improvements.

The police committee will recommend Walter Kramer, Sanatoga, and Woodrow L. Eddinger, Bechtelsville, for positions on the borough police force.

The police committee also will ask for an ordinance banning diagonal parking on Edgewood street from High street to Walnut street.

AN AMENDMENT to the stop sign ordinance will propose a stop sign on Eighth street at Belmont street.

The highway-sewer committee will ask an amendment to the sewer ordinance to complete a 90 foot link of sewer line on Grant street between Morris and Jackson streets.

Council will be asked to approve three more areas for sidewalk and curbing orders. The areas, which will complete the orders for the entire borough, are around the new Pottstown High school; in the Seventh Ward, designated as the "St. Pius X-Wyndcroft school area" and the West End school area.

The property committee will ask council to award Elmer Erb a $2750 contract to build a new roof for the Bethany recreation center. It will also ask council to award a $1670 contract for eight air-conditioners to Sears Roebuck and company.

2 CARS DAMAGED

Two cars were damaged Sunday at 5:20 p. m. in an accident at Charlotte and Grace streets. Clair Marie Pospiech, 1200 Centre avenue, told police the mishap occurred when her brakes failed and she went through a stop sign, ramming the left side of an auto operated by Virgilio S. Cardona, 377 Walnut street. Patrolman Robert Corrigan investigated.

LOCAL MERCHANT SELLS SILVER DOLLARS FOR 50c

The above photo shows "Fritz" Frey of The Arrow Camera Shop, selling to one of his many customers a Surprise Confidence package in his store at 80 N. Charlotte St.

One hundred identically wrapped packages were on display and each contained a silver dollar.

Any customer making any ordinary purchase was asked to purchase one of these packages in full confidence that they would receive double their value for the 50c asked for them.

Better than that, Mr. Frey himself guaranteed to purchase back from them the contents at 10 times what they paid for the package if they discovered a misrepresentation.

The idea of selling silver dollars for 50c proved a tremendous acceptance even though no one knew what they were buying and to date no one has returned any complaining misrepresentation.

The Arrow Camera Shop, Pottstown's only Exclusive Camera Store, is endeavoring to sell and service photography to all of their customers in the same confidence as these customers bought the "blind" packages only a few days ago.

CHICAGO NETS 8-7 WIN IN 10 INNINGS

Richie Ashburn's Single Climaxes Long, Uphill Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — Richie Ashburn's run-scoring single with two out in the 10th gave the Chicago Cubs an 8-7 uphill victory over the Philadelphia Phillis Sunday.

A sloppy play in the final inning set up the unearned winning run scored by Earl Averill.

Averill singled with one out in the 10th. When pitcher Mark Freeman sacrificed, second baseman Tony Taylor—who was covering first—threw wildly to third base. This enabled Averill to reach third and score the winning run on Ashburn's infield single.

Freeman, sixth Cub pitcher, was credited with his second triumph in the series. He earned his first major league victory with a four-hitter against the Phils Friday.

A total of 39 players, 21 of them Cubs, saw action in the marathon struggle which lasted 3 hours and 50 minutes.

Philadelphia scored three runs in the first inning on singles by Bobby DelGreco, Tony Curry and Tony Taylor and sacrifice flies by Wally Post and Al Dark. The Cubs picked up a run in their half on Ernie Banks' run-scoring single.

In the third, Tony Taylor singled, made one of his three steals and rode home on Dark's single. Dark scored on a double by Pancho Herrera.

The Cubs cut the margin with two runs in the third only to have the Phils come back with two more in the fifth for a 7-3 lead.

A four-run uprising in the sixth, keyed by five hits including doubles by Banks and Sammy Taylor, tied the score and relief pitchers for both teams settled down to eventually send the game into extra innings .

Humberto Robinson, fifth Philadelphia pitcher, suffered his fourth loss without victory.

Kennett Square's Don Webster Earns 'Outstanding' Award In AAU Affair

HARRISBURG, (AP) — Eight records were set—including one by a 15-year-old youngster—in the Middle Atlantic AAU track and field meet here Saturday.

Don Webster, a Junior at Kennett Consolidated high school, set a record of 47.3 in winning the 440-yard dash. The feat earned him the meet's outstanding competitor award.

Track star Josh Culbreath, a two-time Pan American champion and winner of the 1959 Russian-American track meet, was one of those left behind by the long-striding Webster. Culbreath, of Norristown finished third behind Herb Washington, of the Philadelphia Pioneer club.

Culbreath sized up Webster's performance this way:

"The boy is a terrific runner—have no doubt about that. He is a strong boy—the best I have ever seen for his age. He has the one thing you need to be a great quarter miler — strength. And he can relax."

* * *

THE OLD 440-yard meet record was 48.3 set by Bill Carr of Penn in 1932.

Culbreath set one of the other meet records—the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.9. The old mark was 22.3 by Jim Gehrdes of Penn State in 1949.

Bill Sharpe, of Shanahan C. C., set another record in the hop, step and jump with a distance of 51-1¾. The 28-year-old Philadelphian bettered his own three-year-old record by 3¾ inches.

Barney Berlinger Jr., of Penn, set a pole vault record at 14 feet, 3 inches, breaking the previous record of 14 feet set by Orlando Cruz, a member of the 1956 Puerto Rican Olympic team. Cruz was competing for Mercersburg Academy when he set the mark in 1958.

* * *

FRANK BUDD, of the Villanova club, won the 220-yard dash in a record 20.8. The old mark of 21.2 was set in 1951. Webster finished second in that event.

Leon Pras, a member of Villanova's IC4A championship team, won the high hurdles in 14.2 seconds, breaking the mark of 14.3 set by Charlie Pratt in 1958.

Robert Mimms, of the Penn A. C., bettered his own old mark of 15:50.3 in the two-mile walk. His record time was 15:36.1.

The other record was by John Reider of Shanahan C. C., who threw the javelin 216-1½. The old record of 213-2¼ was set in 1942.

Spring City Trips Narberth, 4-3, In Legion Junior Exhibition Tilt

NARBERTH — Walt Faddis' ninth inning double chased Gary Ebert across with the tie-breaking run as the Spring City Legion shaded Narberth, 4-3 here Saturday.

The Red Sox, tuning up for the Ches-Mont league opener tomorrow night at Collegeville, were winning their first exhibition game in three tries.

The Sox, who trailed throughout the game, tied the score at 3-3 in the seventh on a single by Paul Youngblud, a walk to Jack Williams and a squeeze bunt by Denny Faust sandwiched around a brace of errors good for two runs.

The Sox—outhit 10-3 by their Lower Montco league rivals—took advantage of 11 walks to hang the loss on Jim Castiglando, fourth Narberth hurler.

John Miller, in relief of Jim Krause, took the win after three innings of scoreless ball.

The Sox play their first two league games on the road, at Collegeville tonight and Downingtown Thursday. They host Phoenixville Saturday in their first home tilt.

Challenger Patterson Stages Fine Workout

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP)—Challenger Floyd Patterson opened up against Norwegian sparring partner Bjorne Lingaas Sunday and staged one of his best workouts in preparation for his heavyweight title fight against Ingemar Johansson a week from Monday.

Lingaas, a good long - range boxer, connected with a couple of sharp blows.

Patterson came back with a couple of left hooks and a right to the chin that sent the Norwegian 10 feet across the ring into the ropes. In the next round Patterson again belted Lingaas with a couple of hard rights and handlers cut the round short.

RAIN HALTS ACTIVITY IN 6TH INNING

Thornton, Nattle, Larkin Sparkle In Giant Victory

Rain and Phoenixville batters made the USWA-Post 47 Steelers' league debut at Enterprise field a cause for chagrin as the visitors stroked a pair of homers and downed the Steelers, 9-4.

The rain entered the picture and halted the game midway through the sixth inning. It was the first of the Ches-Mont year for both clubs.

Bill Thornton was a particular thorn in the Steelers' sides, as he clubbed four hits in four trips — one a double — and scored three runs.

Butch Nattle and winning pitcher Al Larkin also got into the act with home runs. Nattle's cleared the fence in left field and Larkin's landed atop the fence, going over.

SOUTHPAW PETE BARTH was the Steeler starter, who took the loss, leaving after three and a third innings. Nick Petro finished the job.

The Chester countians also came up with several sparkling defensive plays, including Mel Ford-Bey's one-handed shoestring catch of a sinking liner by Bob Yeager in the fourth, and a neat pickup and throw by Bob Evans of a grounder which which was headed for the hole over second base.

The rally-killing pickup came when Evans backhanded a grounder off the bat of Nick Petro in the fifth.

The Steelers saw the lead once. After the visitors had scored three times in the first on a single, a triple by Ford-Bey and Nattle's round-tripper, the Steelers picked up four runs in their half.

* * *

A LEADOFF SINGLE by Bruce Ricketts, coupled with a fielder's choice, hit batsman, two more singles and a neat squeeze bunt plus two errors gave the Steelers' their only runs.

Larkin faced only two batters over the minimum in the next four innings.

Meanwhile, Larkin tied the score with his solo blast in the second.

The rain started as early as the third inning, and began to come down in earnest in the fourth, when the visitors got three runs to chase Barth.

* * *

AL GUBANICH and Larkin waited out free passes, and Thornton doubled down the left field line to drive in Gubanich.

Steeler pilot Pat Sundstrom then called on Petro, whose first offering to Evans was bunted neatly to send Larkin across. Travis-Bey then singled home Thornton.

Two more runs crossed in the sixth despite an odd game-ending double play.

Thornton and Evans hit back-to back singles, and Travis-Bey was intentionally passed. Ford-Bey grounded to Pete Mauger at short, sending in Thornton as Mauger went to second for the force on Travis-Bey.

George Millard's relay to first was past Bill Logan, but he quickly retrieved and threw out Ford-Bey at second.

When the rain grew harder plate umpire Walt Foley called a recess, then the game was called official 15 minutes later.

Bears Get Forfeit Win In Berks Legion Loop

The Boyertown Legion team "coasted" to its second Berks county league win Saturday afternoon, and had its Sunday tilt at Kutztown rained out.

The Bears gained a 9-0 victory over Kutztown-Topton when the latter club failed to show for its scheduled tilt at Gabelsville Saturday afternoon.

The rained-out Sunday game was rescheduled for tomorrow evening at 5:30 in Kutztown. The Bears will leave the Legion post at 4 o'clock by bus for the game.

Stowe Outlasts Starr Hill In Connie Mack Go

PHOENIXVILLE — Stowe's Lions outlasted Starr Hill, 6-5, here Sunday to notch their second Connie Mack, Ches-Mont league win in as many outings.

The Lions jumped off to a 4-0 lead but were tenaciously clinging to a one-run margin when rain interrupted proceedings after six innings.

Starter and winner Harry Kappenstein, staked to two runs in the first and single markers in the second and fourth, weakened in the bottom of the fourth.

Starr Hill reached him for two in that inning and managed one more in each the fifth and sixth frames before Nick Colosanti was rushed to the rescue.

COLOSANTI GAVE up one more run in the sixth but retired the side with the Lions still one run ahead when the rains came.

Chuck Hall went all the way for the losers. The Starr Hill twirler was nicked for ten hits.

Mike LaHoda and Jim Armstrong led the attack on Hall with two safeties each. LaHoda also had a pair of RBI.

Hub Hose Rip Chisox 4-1 On Runnels' Clutch Hit

BOSTON (AP)—Pete Runnels, Mr. Red Sox in a lean year, beat the Chicago White Sox 4-1 Sunday with a two-run single and a spectacular run-saving catch.

Runnels struck the decisive blow in Boston's three-run fifth to break a 1-1 deadlock.

The slender Texan, who had two hits in four trips and raised his American League batting average to .385, robbed Luis Aparicio with two out and a runner on second in the Chicago fourth. Runnels raced to his right, deep behind second, for a leaping stab that saved a run.

Big Frank Sullivan pitched by far his best game of the season for the last-place Red Sox, scattering seven hits with wide-bending tosses the Chicagoans had trouble hitting solidly.

Sully also touched off the big inning by singling to center on loser Bob Shaw's 3-2 pitch. Green singled him to third before Runnels scored both of them, but was out himself trying to stretch his hit into a double. Ted Williams then doubled to center and Vic Wertz was walked before Marty Keough hit a two-bagger that made it 4-1.

Sullivan entered the game with a 1-6 record and a 5.99 earned run average. It was only the second complete game for the right-hander in eight starts.

Chicago tallied on three hits in the third. Aparicio got a double on a slow, line-hugging roller to right. Fox beat out a bunt with Aparicio going to third. After Jim Landis fouled out and Minnie Minoso flied to right, Roy Sievers hit a looping pop single behind first to bring in the run.

Runnels, who has played three infield positions in the past five days, had a third hit taken from him when Minoso leaped to spear his drive at the scoreboard in the first inning.

Mike Higgins Returns As Boston Field Pilot

BOSTON, (AP)—Michael Francis (Pinky) Higgins Sunday returned as field manager of the Boston Red Sox, succeeding Billy Jurges who had replaced him last Summer.

The announcement from owner Tom Yawkey came two hours after the last place Boston club defeated Chicago 4-1.

Higgins, who was taken off the job last July "regrettably" comes back under the terms of a "gentlemen's agreement."

Higgins will rejoin the team to start a road trip either Monday night or Tuesday morning depending on how soon he can get a flight reservation from his Dallas home.

CORNELIA OTIS SKINNER has a well-nursed grievance against "those wretched unknowns who are responsible for American packaging."

She calls them "those wizards of cardboard, waxed paper, cellophane, tape with red tabs saying 'Pull,' red dots saying 'Push,' semi-perforated hyphen lines saying 'Open here,' who are responsible for causing our consumer goods to reach us in boxes, containers, wrappers, and cartons that are not only increasingly hideous, but increasingly unopenable."

Wow! Any member of the packaging fraternity care to rebut the angry Miss Skinner?

Pirates Gain 15-3 Triumph in Opener

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The first-place Pittsburgh Pirates battered St. Louis 15-3 Sunday in the opener of a doubleheader, but the Cardinals bounced back to win the second game 5-2 behind Ernie Broglio and reliever Lindy McDaniel.

Dick Stuart, Dick Groat and Smoky Burgess collected 13 of Pittsburgh's 23 hits in the opener as Vern Law coasted to his ninth victory against two losses. He became the winningest pitcher in the majors.

St. Louis, which took the series, 3-1, hung the nightcap loss on Wilmer Mizell, facing his ex-teammates for the first time. The left-hander yielded three runs in his four innings.

In the opener, Stuart drove in five runs and collected five hits, including his sixth and seventh home runs. His first four-bagger came in a six-run first inning that routed starter Ron Kline and tagged the ex-Pirate with his sixth loss in eight decisions.

Groat delivered three singles and a double in four successive innings and Burgess belted four singles. Don Hoak smashed the only other homer, his fifth. It came with two on base on rookie left-hander Cal Browning's first pitch in the majors.

Lemon Wallops 3 Homers As Nats, Bengals Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jim Lemon, Washington outfielder, walloped three home runs Sunday to pace an 11-homer parade as the Senators split a doubleheader with Detroit, winning the opener 8-3 and dropping the night cap 12-5.

Lemon hit one in the first and two in the second to run his season's total to 16. Detroit's Eddie Yost and Jose Valdivielso of Washington each contributed one in the first.

The stands really got a battering in the second game with eight round-trippers. Rocky Colavito of Detroit matched Lemon's pair and pushed his season's total to 10. Bob Allison added one for Washington. For Detroit, Frank Bolling, Chico Fernandez and even pitcher Frank Lary joined in with one each.

Camilo Pascual was credited with the first game victory even though Don Lee had to be called in to hold the Tigers in check.

Similarly, Lary won the second to raise his mark to 6-5 but needed late-inning help from Tom Morgan.

Pitching of Jim Coates, a second-year flinger for the Yankees, continues to keep the Yanks in the pennant fight. The tall righthander has recorded six straight wins this year and 10 in a row without defeat. Coates, who is 27, has been in baseball since 1952 and had a 6-1 mark with the Yanks in '59.

An eight-run first inning proved more than enough to enable Kenilworth to post its third straight Junior league win last Saturday at Memorial park.

Unbeaten Kenilworth added singletons in the fourth and fifth to make the final score over losing Frosty read, 10-0.

The win created a deadlock at the league roof. Both Kenilworth and the Shamrocks hold 3-0 cards.

Ed Plask, notching his second mound success, limited Frosty to just two hits. He walked one and set down 11 on strikes.

KENILWORTH RAKED two Frosty pitchers for 12 hits. George Koren, the starter and loser, gave up 10 and the entire first inning run total.

The win was the third in a row for unscathed North End which moved into a tie for the coveted spot with Pottsgrove's Optimists.

The winners raked losing pitcher Don Rantz for 12 hits, cracking the game wide open with four runs in the fourth and seven in the fifth.

Don Barndt and Ed Pollock shared hill duties for the North Enders with Barndt credited with the official win after giving up one hit and one run in five and one-third innings. He struckout 14.

A's Take Pair, 6-1, 5-3 As Snyder Shines At Plate

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Kansas City A's knocked Baltimore out of a tie for first place in the American League Sunday, whipping the Orioles 6-1 and 5-3 in 10 innings to sweep a doubleheader.

The twin defeat left the Birds a half-game behind league-leading Cleveland in the AL standings. The Indians were rained out of a doubleheader at New York.

Russ Snyder, one of the heroes of the opening game with three hits, touched off the extra-inning rally in the nightcap with a 385-foot triple to right field off losing pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm. Whitey Herzog singled him home and Norm Siebern doubled to center for the second run.

It was Wilhelm's fourth loss against two victories. Johnny Kucks, the fourth Kansas City pitcher, was the winner and now is 1-0.

Baltimore tied it 3-3 in the seventh as Brooks Robinson singled and Al Pilarcik hit a double off the right field bleacher wall to score Robinson.

At that point Marty Kutyna relieved Bob Trowbridge, who had given up seven hits and three walks while striking out two.

In the second inning, when Baltimore catcher Clint Courtney was injured, Kansas City scored twice on doubles by Norm Siebern and Bob Johnson, Dick Williams' single and an error by shortstop Ron Hansen.

Courtney twisted his knee and was taken out of the game after colliding with Kansas City catcher Harry Chiti as Chiti was thrown out at home.

A Williams double and a single by Johnson gave Kansas City its run in the fourth inning.

Dodgers Cop 3-1 Nod Over Cincy On Williams Job

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Strong boy Stan Williams checked Cincinnati on four hits Sunday and picked up his sixth straight victory as Los Angeles defeated the Reds 3-1.

Williams, never renowned for his control, walked only one, struck out eight and faced only four over the minimum of 27 batters.

The Dodgers, who lost five in a row to the Reds this season before beating them Friday night, got two runs in the fifth inning on singles by Maury Wills, Charley Neal and Norm Laker. They got another in the sixth when Don Demeter slammed his eighth homer over the left field screen.

Williams lost his shutout in the seventh on Eddie Kasko's leadoff homer over the screen. It was his fourth this year.

The only other Redlegs to get hits were Vada Pinson, who singled in the first, Billy Martin, who got a single in the eighth, and Jerry Lynch, who singled in the ninth.

Williams suffered his last loss when Cincinnati beat him here last September. He won later that month and has five victories this season.

Redleg Stater Jay Hook was touched for all three Dodger runs and took the loss, his fifth in 10 decisions.

Burglars Get $45 In Luncheonet Break-in

Burglars got away with an estimated $45 after smashing open a cigaret machine and two juke boxes at Marty's luncheonet on Route 83 in East Coventry township.

The thieves also rifled the cash register, broke numerous dishes and damaged a formica cabinet top.

The burglary was discovered shortly before 7 o'clock Saturday morning by Mrs. Edwardine Shoemaker, an employe.

Martin Sahagian, owner of the luncheonet, said entrance was made through a kitchen window 22 feet above the ground. He said this is the second time within the past year his establishment has been broken into. Nothing was taken the first time.

State Trooper Raymond Bunjo of the Thorndale barracks investigated.
